B52s Hit Suspected Cong Staging Area

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — High-altitude B52s from Guam poured 750-pound bombs Sunday into a suspected Viet Cong jungle base south of Da Nang where the Communists are believed massing for operations.

A military spokesman said the eight-engine jets hit almost the same region plastered by a B52 strike Saturday. The target Sunday was a suspected Viet Cong concentration and base camp area.

Da Nang, site of a big U.S. air base, is about 380 miles north of Saigon.

War Protestors Observe Date Of 1st A-Blast

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Persons protesting American involvement in the Viet Nam war observed the 21st anniversary of the dropping of the atomic bomb on Hiroshima Saturday with demonstrations in several cities, including one near the Washington church in which the President's daughter was married.

A small group carrying placards and a miniature black coffin picketed about 100 yards from the National Shrine of the Immaculate Conception, where Luci Baines Johnson wed Patrick J. Nugent.

William Higgs, a spokesman for the marchers, said it was "in very bad taste" for the daughter of a president to get married on the anniversary of the Hiroshima bombing.

In 1945 an American B29 dropped an atomic bomb on human beings for the first time. Japanese officials estimated the death toll at 200,000, but Americans placed it at 80,000.

Police in New York kept demonstrators separated from advocates of American policy in Viet Nam. The two groups engaged in a shouting match in Times Square.

More than 2,000 persons participated in a march along Seventh Avenue and Broadway. Later they marched to Rockefeller Center for a demonstration in front of the headquarters of a company which makes napalm.

"Burn the Reds!" they shouted across Times Square. The antiwar protesters chanted back: "One, two, three, four! Bring the boys back from war!" At Niagara Falls, Ont., police warned 600 persons about stopping cars to hand out leaflets at the foot of a bridge linking the U.S. and Canada.

either early Sunday or late Saturday, a U.S. spokesman said. One military operation, named, Koko, ended Saturday night. U.S. military headquarters said the two-week sweep by the U.S. 25th Infantry Division about 25 miles northwest of the capital accounted for 40 Viet Cong dead and 25 captured.

In the central highlands, a 3,000-man U.S. infantry brigade fresh from the United States new in Saturday to beef up American forces blocking a Communist attempt to slice South Viet Nam in two. The new troops raised U.S. manpower in the county to nearly 290,000.

The Unit of the U.S. 4th Infantry (Ivy) Division, famous for its landing on Utah Beach on D-Day in World War II, arrived at coastal Qui Nhon before dawn after a trip from the division's base at Fort Lewis, Wash., and almost immediately the men were boarding helicopters. They were flown to a base camp in the highlands where a force of 10,000 U.S. fighters has been hunting a combined force of North Vietnamese regulars and Viet Cong for almost a week.

Action in the highlands campaign west of Pleiku dwindled to sporadic and light encounters.

The U.S. build-up, expected to be followed by the arrival of remainder of the 4th Division, came on a day when ground action throughout South Viet Nam was light.

Rusk Hails 3rd Birthday Of Test Ban

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Dean Rusk voiced hope Saturday that the Soviet Union will "negotiate with us in a spirit of compromise" on disarmament agreements going beyond the 1963 nuclear test ban treaty.

In a statement hailing the third anniversary of the pact banning all except underground atomic tests, Rusk spoke specifically of proposals to outlaw the spread of nuclear arms and to cut off production of atomic weapons material.

These proposals now are before the 17-nation disarmament conference in Geneva — and No. 1 priority, in the U.S. view, goes to the effort to prevent atomic arms from spreading to new national arsenals.

Washington strategists fear mounting pressure on countries like India and Pakistan, Egypt and Israel and others to acquire nuclear weaponry could lead to disastrous consequences for world peace unless a curb is found.

Rusk's avowed hope is tempered, as he put it at a news conference Friday, with doubt about prospects for an early solution to the U.S.-Soviet differences over a nonproliferation pact that have arisen in the Geneva talks.

Moscow has objected to the U.S. version of an agreement to check the spread on grounds that it would allow nuclear weapons for Germany.

Washington refused to shut its West German ally off from any independent atomic capability and accusing the Kremlin of being more interested in weakening NATO than in a nonproliferation treaty.

A second obstacle has been the Viet Nam war. The Soviets have been trying to avoid any appearance of being too friendly toward the United States, whom they denounce as the aggressors in Southeast Asia.

Strong doubts were expressed that a month-old strike on five airlines constituted a national emergency that required congressional action. Fears were also voiced that the bill would amount to compulsory arbitration and would set a precedent that would undermine the collective-bargaining system.

Wirtz agreed that any legislative action to end a strike would tend to weaken collective bargaining.

"But collective bargaining has fallen in its face in this situation," he said. "When it has failed this badly, you have to weigh that against other considerations. I have mixed reactions."

"Repetition of illegal acts," he warned, "will continue to result in swift arrests."

Schedule Vigil

Supt. O. W. Wilson, whose heavy concentrations of police have kept aroused whites from closing in on the demonstrators in both neighborhoods, appealed to all citizens to help maintain law and order. He asked people to stay away from disturbed areas.

Step-By-Step Whitman Drew Closer To His Day Of Wrath

By SAUL PETT and JULES LOH

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP)—On March 2, 1966, a sunny day in the seaside town of Lake Worth, Fla., where mothers used to ask their kids, "Why can't you be like Charley Whitman?"

Whitman, now 25, full grown, tall, handsome, was walking up and down outside his father's house.

He did not go in. Instead, he paced the sidewalk and as he did was seen wiping his eyes.

Was it dust or was it tears? The overwhelming evidence, now crying out from the soul and brain of a dead man, votes for tears. Tears, then, we assume it was, although few people ever saw Charley Whitman troubled.

Not good old Charley, the nice guy, the boy with the all-American look, the good friend, the earnest student, the playful kisser, the reliable altar boy, the smiling paper boy, the first Eagle Scout around at the age of 12, the sharp-eyed deer hunter of the Everglades, the boy who never forgot to say ma'am and sir, the best college roommate a fellow ever had — the boy, the adolescent, the man who always appeared on the sunny side of promise.

Day Of Wrath
March 2, a Wednesday, a day of tears five months before a day of wrath.

Inside the house, Charley Whitman's mother was packing her things. She was leaving his father. She would drive to Austin with her eldest son and live there.

So he waited, not going in, and began to worry. He found a phone and called the police and asked them to protect his mother on her last day in his father's house. The call would become the first of many crushing ironies. The police came, found no reason to stay.

In Austin, Charley Whitman found an apartment for his mother. It was just two miles from the small brick duplex where Charley lived with his pretty wife, Kathleen. It was one mile from the landmark he liked to visit — the soaring bell tower of the University of Texas, where a man could see the campus, the town, the rolling prairie, the big sky and, perhaps, a way out of pain and hate.

But most people saw no pain, no hate in Charley Whitman. He seemed like a guy who had everything.

He and his Kathy, still as pretty as the day she was crowned Queen of the Youth Fair back in her home town of Needville, Tex.; still as lovely as the day she became his bride four years ago.

Comfortable Home
He had a comfortable home which Kathy kept so tidy other campus wives marveled. They both had good summer jobs, she at the telephone company, he as an assistant at the university's engineering research lab.

Luci, Pat Exchange Vows In Capital

WASHINGTON (AP) — Luci B. Johnson, daughter of the President, exchanging the sacred vows of marriage with Patrick J. Nugent Saturday in rites of modern splendor tinged with the antiquity of Christendom.

President Johnson gave Luci away at the beginning of one of "the" weddings in all Washington history, in the massive, magnificent National Shrine of the Immaculate Conception. It is the world's seventh largest church and the National church of Roman Catholics.

The archbishop of Washington, Patrick A. O'Boyle, presided at a Nuptial Mass for the first time since he or any of his associates could remember. At the end, he invoked God's blessing on the newlyweds, read a special blessing from Pope Paul VI, and made the sign of the cross.

After escorting his daughter, 19, down the block-long polished-marble center aisle, the President offered her hand to the young man, 23, from Waukegan, Ill., she was about to marry in the wedding of her dreams.

Then Johnson joined Mrs. Johnson in a first-row pew, along with 700 guests, to watch the rituals unfold. They included friends and neighbors from Washington and back home and an assortment of high Washington officials.

Chicago Priest
The marriage ceremony itself came about a third of the way through the Nuptial Mass. It was performed by a Chicago priest who used to be a next-door neighbor and babysitter for Pat Nugent back in Waukegan — the Rev. John Kuzinkas.

There was no "love, honor and obey," but Patrick John Nugent and Luci Baines Johnson said their "I do's" in turn and exchanged their vows "to have and to hold, from this day forward, for better, for worse, for richer, for poorer, in sickness and in health, until death do us part."

WASHINGTON (AP) — Luci Johnson and Patrick J. Nugent got best wishes from the bridegroom's brother, on combat duty in Viet Nam, just before they were married Saturday.

The brother, Lt. Lt. Gerard (Gerry) Nugent, was with his company of Marines on a lonely hill called only No. 65 when his cablegram reached the White House.

It said: "Congratulations Paddy and Luci. Sorry I cannot be there, but you know how it is. See you in September. Best wishes." "Gerry."

It was 12:42 p.m. on a gorgeous, summer day. The temperature was 83, with low humidity at high noon, the scheduled hour for the beginning of the Nuptial Mass.

Luci seemed to be shaking a bit. But she was the traditional lovely, beautiful bride in a gown of white silk and lace and a three-yard bridal veil. And she was smiling upon the man who was about to become her husband.

McCartney replied: "No, I like England better. The main reason is the attitude of the people in the United States. They seem to believe that money is everything. And this applies especially to the kind of people we meet — agents and corporation people. You get the feeling everybody's after it — money — and it's sort of frightening."

ARREST WAC DESERTER
CHICAGO (AP)—A WAC, 25, who tired of the Army and went home to her parents, was arrested Saturday by FBI agents as a deserter.

Marlin W. Johnson, head of the Chicago FBI office, said that Nina Werenicz, who had been absent from her duties at Ft. Sheridan since April 3, was formally listed by the Army as a deserter May 6.

She was found in the Chicago home of her parents and turned over to Military Police, Johnson said.

Most of the deaths came when Whitman went to the observation platform above the 27th floor of the University of Texas tower last Monday and began shooting. He killed 13 and wounded 31.

Later, police found he killed his pretty wife and his mother in their separate apartments during the night.

One autopsy report showed a pecan-sized tumor at the base of Whitman's brain. Doctors said it could not have affected his thinking but the grand jury issued a report saying the tumor "undoubtedly caused Whitman, 25, much mental pain and possibly contributed to his insane action."

Dexedrine, or goof balls, were found in Whitman's clothing after he was shot dead on his lofty perch.

POLES CLAIM U.S. BOMBS ENDANGER ICC OFFICIALS

WARSAW (AP) — The Polish government protested officially Saturday that U.S. planes bombed and strafed a Cambodian village last Tuesday and endangered members of the International Control Commission making an investigation there.

The protest said American bombs fell within 100 yards of some of the ICC members.

In Washington, the State Department had no immediate comment.

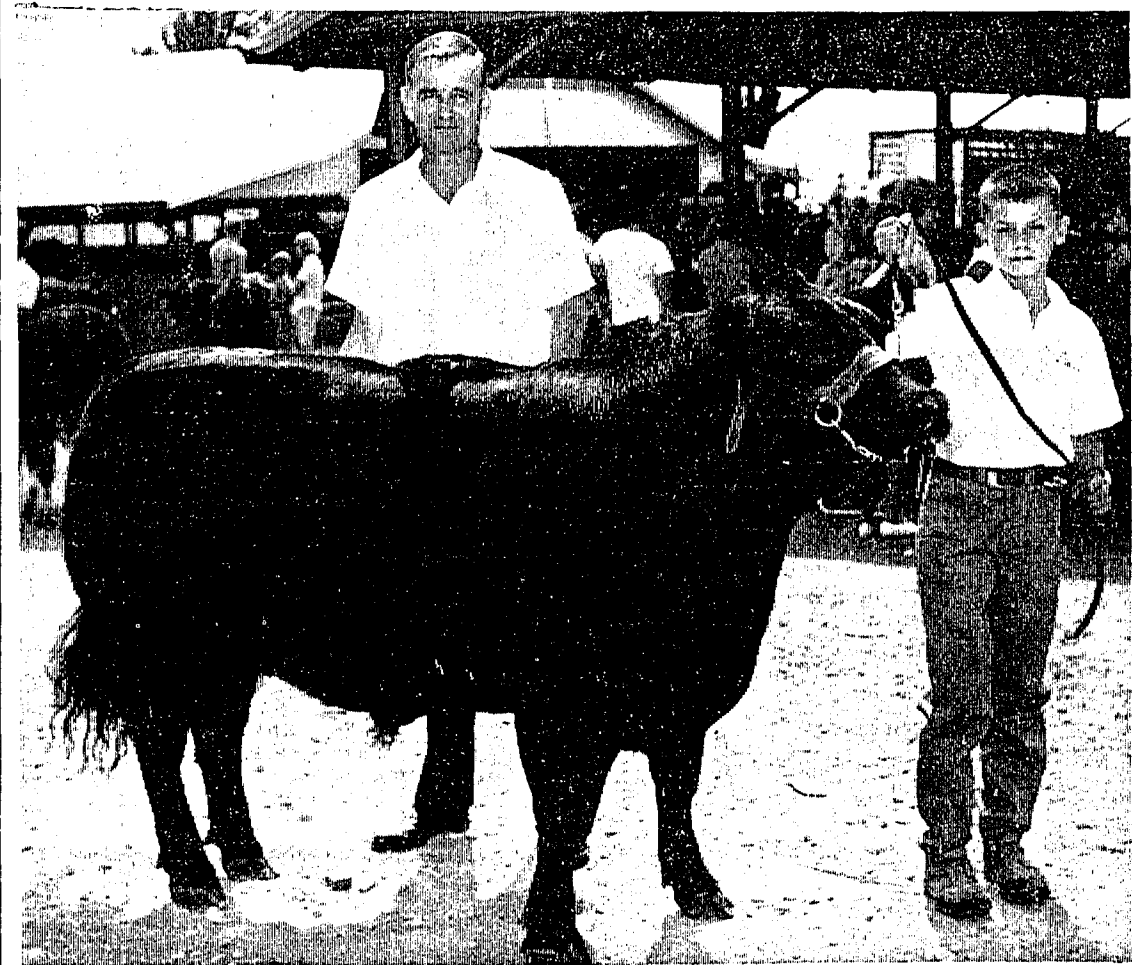

According to the Polish Press Agency, the attack occurred Aug. 2. Cambodian officials said earlier this week that U.S. planes had attacked a village on the South Vietnamese border that same day and members of the ICC were there.

The Polish protest said the United States was responsible "for this particular and also other acts of aggression in Indochina."

Poland, India and Canada are member nations of the commission which supervises the 1954 Geneva accords setting up the two Viet Nams, Laos and Cambodia.

The Polish government protest declared: "Members of the international supervision and control commission, accompanied by military attaches and representatives of embassies accredited in Cambodia, went on Aug. 2 to the village Thlok Trach, situated 1,100 yards from the South Vietnamese border to investigate a U.S. air raid of July 31."

Beatles Keep Sounding Off Without Music

LONDON (AP) — The embattled Beatles kept sounding off Saturday in words without music.

One of the mop-haired millionaires told a British radio audience he had found the American people's pursuit of money "sort of frightening."

Another said he wasn't really looking forward to their new tour of the United States beginning next week — "We've got to go and get beaten up in America." For good measure, he said Britain was becoming a police state.

Beatles Paul McCartney and George Harrison got into the act even while manager Brian Epstein was in the United States trying to quiet a revolt against a coming invasion by his group.

The revolt stemmed from published remarks of chief Beatle John Lennon that the group was "more popular than Jesus now."

Usually loud drummer Ringo Starr has been the silent one of late.

The Beatles' press office rushed out a bulletin saying Lennon was "deeply interested in religion" and that what he meant was this: "That in the last 50 years the church in England and therefore Christ had suffered decline in interest. He did not mean to boast about the Beatles' fame."

The Beatles were decorated by Queen Elizabeth II for bringing dollars and recognition to Britain — an award that was widely acclaimed and criticized.

Prisoners Guarding Goods For Viet War

By JOSEPH E. MOHBAT
WASHINGTON (AP) — A growing supply line of carefully produced goods is finding its way into the Viet Nam war effort from behind the walls of more than a dozen U.S. prisons.

From torpedo parts to toothbrushes, from mattresses to rebuilt tank treads, thousands of society's outcasts are turning out scores of items essential to the increasing number of U.S. forces in Southeast Asia.

The federal prisoners are supplementing the output of private industry — and, in several instances, producing goods generally unavailable from the Defense Department's usual list of suppliers.

Dog tags and iron bed frames come from the prison at El Reno, Okla. Towels, washcloths and the special lightweight blankets needed in tropical South Viet Nam are turned out at Terre Haute, Ind. Dufflebags come from Tallahassee, Fla., while GI jackets, trousers and shoes are produced at Leavenworth, Kan.

Some of the best tire rebuilding in the country, federal prison officials say, is done at Petersburg, Va. Tank treads and wheels are rebuilt there and at Texarkana, Tex.

El Reno makes gun bore brushes. Atlanta stuffs mattresses. Tallahassee and Terre Haute turn out canvas bottoms for the berths on ships, and ship lockers and shelving comes from Lewisburg, Pa.

Of the $50-million worth of goods turned out by Federal Prisons, Inc., in the past fiscal year — netting an $11-million profit — one-half was for the Defense Department. And military requirements resulted in an $8-million increase in prison production over fiscal 1965.

"Of course, our real job isn't to produce goods but to furnish employment and training to these men," T. Wade Markley, associate commissioner of Federal Prison Industries, said in an interview.

"We've got nothing to sell but high quality and dependable production," he said. "We have a pretty sophisticated quality control program. And we try to follow the highest private industry standards so that we can better prepare our men for the outside world."

While private industry and labor sometimes complain when new areas of production, Markley said, they generally are quick to cooperate.

"We have less problems, in many respects, in producing some of these items than private industry, so far. We are quality conscious more than cost conscious. And we are able to produce in accordance with the military specifications given us in advance, rather than trying to produce something and hope it will sell."

HALCYON DAYS

Halcyon was the name the ancient Greeks gave to the kingfisher. In folklore, the halcyon was said to nest on the sea and to have the power of quieting the winds during the time its eggs were hatching. The term "halcyon days" (tranquil days) arose from this story.

The first fund-raising project was a community sale that netted more than $4,000.TFX All-Purpose War Plane
Sparks Sharp Controversy*EDITOR'S NOTE—The TFX all-purpose war plane which Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara hoped would save money has been a subject of controversy. An AP writer who has studied the project gives a progress report.By BEM PRICE
NEW YORK (AP)—The bitter controversy over whether Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara forced a second-best warplane on the nation's military to save $1 billion is heating up again.

This latest outbreak centers around development of the Navy version of the TFX—tactical fighter experimental—now known as the F111B.

As a weapons system—aircraft wedded to missile—the program is 12 to 18 months behind schedule.

The first three prototypes were so badly overweight they were useless for carrier operations.

Further, the research and development costs for the weapons system are soaring although this is not uncommon in projects involving new weaponry.

The F111—and there are two versions to date—may not turn out to be the all-weather, all-purpose air superiority aircraft originally envisioned by McNamara.

The Marine Corps already has told Congress it does not intend to buy the F111 in either the Air Force or Navy versions for close air support of troops.

There have been published reports out of Washington indicating that the Senate Investigations subcommittee, headed by Sen. John L. McClellan, D-Ark., may reopen its still uncompleted hearings.

In the original competition Boeing proposed to build 23 research and development aircraft for $466 million. General Dynamics' proposal was $543 million.

McNamara told the McClellan hearing the purchase of a single warplane for use by the Air Force, Navy and Marines would save at least $1 billion.

Subsequently, when the subcommittee asked the then Comptroller General Joseph Campbell to check McNamara's savings claim, Campbell reported he could find no figures and quoted McNamara as saying "he had made rough judgments of the kind he had made for many years with the Ford Motor Co." McNamara is a former Ford president.

During the course of the hearings there were assorted charges of favoritism, conflict of interest and lack of Defense Department cooperation, but McNamara refused to budge.

At the time of the contract award, there was congressional testimony that to buy 1,704 TFX warplanes with spare parts and spare engines would cost around $7.8 billion.

As matters now stand, Rear Adm. W. E. Sweeney told a House Appropriations subcommittee last March the Navy F111B research program was running about 30 per cent higher than estimated.

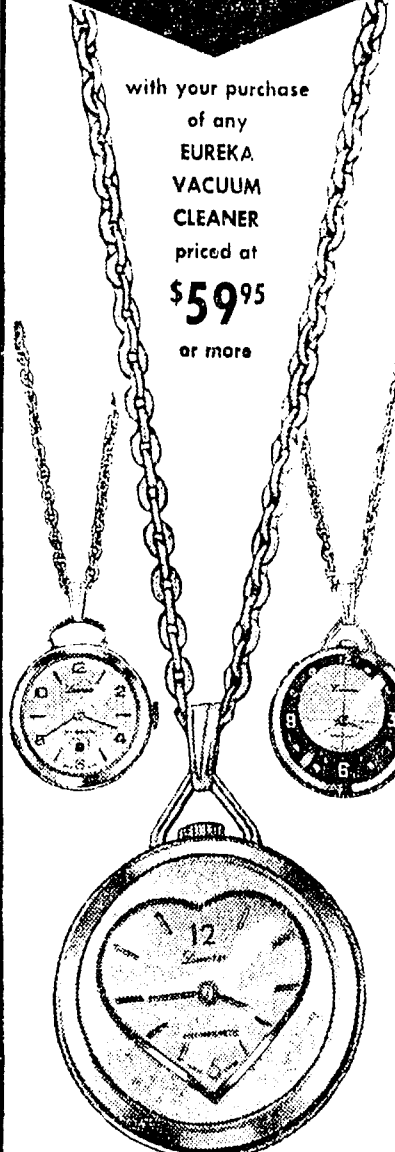

After an intensive weight-reduction program, Grumman turned out a slimmed-down

F111B in July with a gross weight of 64,778 pounds, according to one source. This was still higher than the maximum of 55,000 pounds set by the Navy.

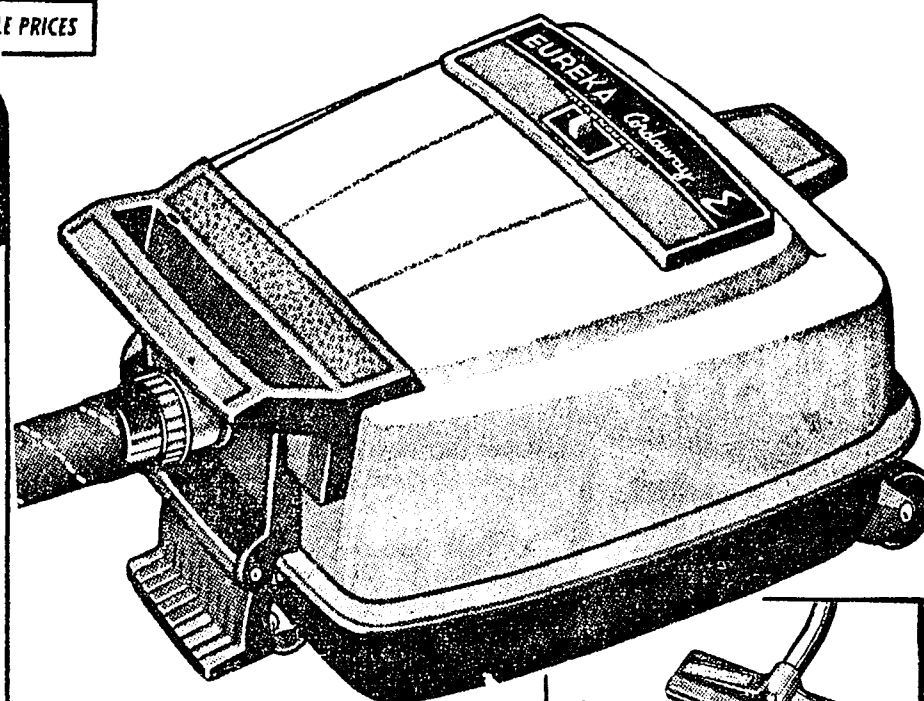

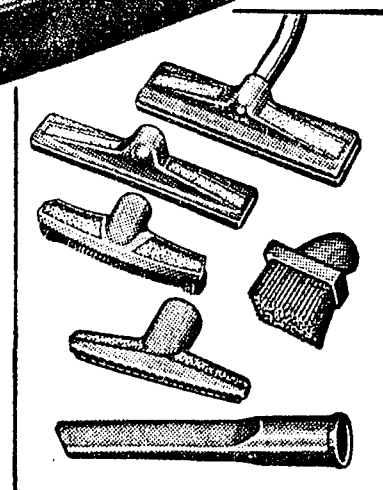

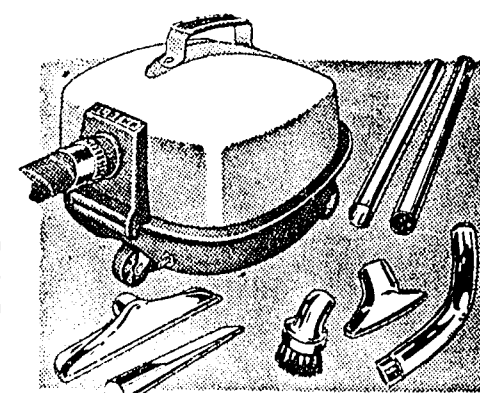

The service ceiling of 55,000 feet has yet to be met by the F111B. A Grumman spokesman said the No. 3 was never taken to its ceiling because Grumman knew it was overweight and unacceptable. The No. 4 is expected to meet the Navy specifications, he said.

Frank Davis, president of General Dynamics Fort Worth Division, said in a telephone interview he was confident the F111B, final version, would be acceptable to the Navy.

A. B. Lemlein, production chief at Grumman, said in an interview: "The Navy has not test flown No. 4. On the basis of the original specifications and the first three versions, there is no question but what the Navy would not take them. We now think we have one hell of an aircraft and the Navy will buy it."

THRILL DRIVER A SPORT TOO

While auto thrill driving is probably more of a spectacle than a sport, many aspects of the attraction are quite similar to any game. What makes a young man take up the occupation, for example?

"I started hell-driving when I was 16, I guess because I wanted to be a star," commented one driver in the Art Swenson Auto Thrill Show, which performed Saturday night at the Morgan County Fair. "I get a certain thrill out of performing dangerous acts before crowds," says Larry O'Brien, 33, of Cleveland, Ohio.

"Auto thrill driving is more show business than a sport," says O'Brien. "The money isn't bad, but you still have to have a thirst for danger in order to make the rounds we make. We sometimes put on nine or ten shows a week, eight months a year, and it's really a sort of rat race."

The thrill show originates out of Springfield, Mo., and is handled by Art Swenson, who has been in the business since 1932. The show has ten new cars, seven of which are actually spares because there are only three drivers.

According to O'Brien, who says he sleeps in his car except for a rare open day, there is a great deal of danger in the thrill driving. He suffered a broken wrist and arm a few months back when he was injured in a "head-on," a trick performed at each show.

The group purchases three old autos, barely in running condition, from a local car dealer at each stop, and proceeds to demolish them while inside. The first act of destruction is a roll-over contest off a ramp, then what O'Brien terms a "head-on"; meeting head-on in midair, coming off a high ramp. When asked what the drivers do when the cars meet in mid air, O'Brien answered simply, "duck."

According to O'Brien, the drivers never really know what will happen during a roll or a collision, and the tricks they perform with the new cars are never actually a sure thing.

O'Brien, who admits he still gets his biggest charge out of performing before a large audience, says the show once packed a 60,000 stadium three nights running, in Ohio.

"I suppose its sort of a sport in that you are always trying to be better than the next guy and are always striving to improve the act, but you still have to have a taste for show business," says O'Brien.

HERE 'N' THERE: Stock car racing returns to Jacksonville this afternoon, after a five or six year absence. A full race program, with action slated to get underway at 1:00, will be staged at the Morgan County Fairgrounds. Stock car racing a few years back was a popular, once-a-week event in Jacksonville.

The Illinois College athletic coaching staff has recently been increased by one. Gary Rasmussen, 25, from Phosphorstown, Ill., will assume duties as football line coach, swimming and track coach. Rasmussen is completing his work on a Master's degree at the University of Illinois this summer. The addition will free coaches Joe Brooks and Bill Merris for more time in their coaching posts.

MacMurray College is slated to get an aspiring athlete in the freshman class this fall that has two brothers in professional baseball. Marc Kolb, 18, a graduate of Rock Falls, Ill. High, was a standout athlete in football, track and basketball at his alma mater, and is active in summer baseball. Kolb's brother Gary signed off the U. of I. campus with the St. Louis Cardinals, and shuttled several years between the Cards and the minor leagues. He later played with the Braves and Mets, and is currently player-coach with the Jacksonville, Fla. team.

Another brother, Jeff, 19, signed two weeks ago with the Chicago White Sox. Observers around Rock Falls have noted that Marc, a "natural athlete," should be the best athlete of the three. He plans to participate in as many sports as possible at MacMurray. Marc is 6-1 and weighs 185 pounds.

Jim Cisne, the hottest young city golfer, will represent Illinois in the 21st Jaycee International Junior Golf Tournament Aug. 7-12 at the home of the Greater Greensboro Open, in Greensboro, N. Carolina. Cisne will be one of four golfers from Illinois. There will be a total of 230 junior golfers from 48 states, Panama and Puerto Rico in the tournament. The Jaycee tournament ranks in the top three national tournaments for young golfers. Former winners of the tournament include such PGA names as Jack Nicklaus, Doug Sanders, Al Geiberger and Tommy Jacobs.

The 72-hole medalist tournament will open following two days of practice and a clinic conducted by Jack Nicklaus. The cut will be made after 36 holes of play, with the low 100 golfers remaining in contention for the championship. The remaining golfers will compete for the "B" title. All entrants are under 18 years of age. They all paved their way to the International with wins at local and state levels. The other three Illinois golfers are from Carverville, Peoria and Bloomington.

Four area prep basketballers have enrolled at Robert Morris Junior College in Carthage. They are 6-5 Bill Middleton from Virginia, Larry Meyer, a 6-2 forward from North Greene, Mike Lowry of Pittsfield and Gary McCoskell of Brown County.

Members of the British Curtis Cup team, beaten by the United States recently at Hot Springs, Va., and players from France and Canada also are in the field. The tournament opens with

Pirates Cool Off Cincy, Keep Lead

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Bill Mazeroski's two-run homer keyed a six-run explosion in the second inning as the Pittsburgh Pirates buried Cincinnati 9-3 Saturday, protecting their National League lead and ending the Reds' winning string at six games.

Right-hander Tommy Sisk checked the Reds on seven hits for his fifth victory against two losses.

Don Clendenon triggered the second inning uprising with a leadoff triple off Jim O'Toole and capped the rally by lashing a two-run single off reliever Jack Baldschun.

Jose Pagan followed Clendenon's triple with a run scoring single and Mazeroski rapped his eighth homer over the left field scoreboard.

Jim Pagliaroni chased O'Toole with a single. A pair of walks filled the bases and Baldschun forced in another run by walking Roberto Clemente. Clendenon followed with his two-run single.

Pack Gives All-Stars Good Lesson

CHICAGO (AP) — Quarterback Gary Lane of Missouri who escaped for a 57-yard dash after trying to pass, was named Saturday the most valuable player of the All-Stars, who succumbed to the Green Bay Packers 38-0 Friday night.

The 210-pounder's long run accounted for all but 27 yards of the All-Stars' net rushing total. He tried 14 passes, hitting nine for 17 yards.

Lane is the property of the Cleveland Browns, who plan to make him into a running back. Lane collected 46 votes from newsmen covering the game in Soldier Field. Next in the balloting was defensive back Nick Rassas of Notre Dame — Atlanta Falcons — with 13 votes.

Bonus Babies Stopped

The Packers' million dollar babies, Donny Anderson of Texas Tech and Jim Grabowski of Illinois, gained 15 yards in six carries. Anderson limped from the field with an injured instep. X-rays proved negative.

"We didn't have any noise out there," Grabowski said simply. The Illini All-America is supposed to battle veteran packer Jim Taylor for his job.

"They didn't come to play," shorted Taylor. "They came to count their money."

Green Bay Coach Vince Lombardi said he didn't know the word revenge and that he couldn't think back as far as 1963 when the All-Stars last won in the series by beating the Packers 20-17.

Did any of the All-Stars impress Lombardi?

"I didn't particularly notice," he snapped.

The revenge motive, however, was apparent among Packer players.

Defeat Boiling

"The coach didn't have to say anything to us about that 1963 game," said defense end Willie Davis. "There were 16 of us in that game, and it was just boiling in our minds. We wanted that one and we got it."

Green Bay's second touchdown was set up on a 69-yard punt return by Willie Wood.

"This is really what killed us," said Lane.

All-Star Coach John Sauer said his players wanted "to go out there and hit, but we couldn't keep anything going because of misplays."

"The Packers weren't trying to rub it in — the veterans wouldn't let them forget 1963 and they came loaded with adrenalin," he added.

Liberty Honored

In Sports Meet

GRANITE CITY, Ill. (AP) — Gregory Cohn, 15, of Chicago, was named the outstanding boy athlete Saturday in the 11th annual Illinois Junior Sports Jam-boree.

Karen Wilbert, 15, of Springfield was named the outstanding girl athlete.

The boy's sportsmanship award went to Kevin Clay, 14, of Evanston and the girl's sportsmanship award to Karen Sorrell, 15, of Liberty.

Liberty, a town of 325 persons in Adams County, had 12 girls entered in the track events and was named the outstanding city in the jamboree, which is sponsored by the Illinois Youth Commission and the Junior Chamber of Commerce. The event is for boys and girls 10 through 15 years old.

Four records were set, including a 2:01.8 half-mile run by Dave Abernathy of Evanston in the intermediate boys division. The old record was 2:02.8.

Mike Hodge of Princeton ran the 220-yard dash in 24.3 to eclipse the junior boys record of 24.4.

The Chicago team set a 49.8 record in the intermediate girls 440-yard relay, surpassing the old mark of 51.2.

The Rock Island team set a 28.3 record in the 220-yard relay in the midjet girls division, breaking the record of 28.8.

Champion Stops London In 1:40 Of Third Round

London Says Clay Just Too Tough

LONDON (AP) — Brian London strolled into Cassius Clay's dressing room after being knocked out by the world champion Saturday night and said:

"I'd like a return — but only if you put a 56-pound weight on each ankle."

Clay, sweating profusely but totally unmarked, had to fight his way through admirers to his dressing room after retaining his title.

He said he knocked London out in the third with a series of punches starting with a left and finishing with a right.

The first was "a fast and snappy one," Clay said. "But it wasn't as hard as I can hit."

"London didn't fight the way I thought he would. He didn't charge like a bull, he didn't hit a low blow. He was a real gentleman."

"And he didn't deserve the boos that the crowd gave him afterwards."

London Unmarked

London was dazed but unmarked when he first returned to his dressing room, the hoots and jeers of the crowd still echoing through the stadium.

"I am sorry," he said.

"You told me he was good, but nobody said he was that good," London added.

"It was not a question of luck. I just was not good enough. There were so many punches I didn't know where they were coming from."

"I went into that ring expecting to go the 15-round distance. I reckon I am as good as the best, but Cassius Clay is different. He's more than the greatest. I am disgusted with myself."

"To get knocked out like that just isn't good enough," London said.

Asked if he would consider retiring, London replied:

"No, there is no chance of that. I still think I can beat the best in the world."

U.S. And Mexico Play For Davis Cup Zone Title

CLEVELAND (AP) — The United States and Mexico, each with new talent as well as a veteran of past challenge rounds on its four-man team, meet here Aug. 13-14-15 in the American Zone finals of the Davis Cup tennis matches.

The setting, the Harold T. Clark Stadium, is the same as in 1964 when the Australian team featuring Roy Emerson and Fred Stolle, carted off the big silver bowl which still remains in the land Down Under.

Drawings will be made Friday, Aug. 12, to determine opponents in the two singles matches opening play Saturday. A doubles match on Sunday is followed on Monday by two more singles matches.

Last year the U.S. defeated Mexico 3-2 in the American Zone finals.

The winner of the matches here will meet Brazil in the interzone semifinals in October, and the winner of that match has one more hurdle to clear before a trip to Australia for the Challenge Round.

U.S. Now 2-0

So far on the 1966 Davis Cup trail, the U.S. team holds a 4-1 victory over British West Indies, and Mexico a 4-1 victory over Argentina.

The Davis Cup veterans of the two teams are Dennis Ralston of Bakersfield, Calif., the No. 1 U.S. singles player, and Rafael Osuna of Mexico City. They've met on the court many times, and Osuna said: "He's beaten me more than I've beaten him."

The U.S. team includes with Ralston his partner in the No. 1 U.S. doubles team, Clark Graebner, 23, of Beachwood, Ohio; Cliff Richey, 19, of Dallas, Tex., who holds a 3-0 U.S. ranking; and Marty Riessen, 24, of Evanston, Ill., ranked No. 8.

Tennis Deadline Only A Day Away

Only one day remains before the entry deadline for the upcoming second annual Jacksonville City Championship Tennis Tournament, which starts next Saturday and Sunday.

No entries will be accepted after midnight, Mon., Aug. 8. Entries blanks, run each day in the JOURNAL COURIER, which is again fully sponsoring the event.

A nominal entry fee of $.50 will be charged at the court for each division entered. The one fee will take a player all the way through each division.

After the total number of entries have been gathered, playing schedules and times will be announced either Wednesday or Thursday. Some allowances will be made for players unable to make matches because of work commitments. Each player may, because of work, change the first announced time for his match, but the second time must be met or forfeited.

Through Saturday between 45-50 entries have been received, with a total of 65-70 hoped for. The tournament last year had approximately 35 entries.

Divisions lacking in a representative total of entries include junior ladies, mixed doubles and senior men's doubles.

Depending on the number of entries, the tournament schedule is planned to cover three straight weekends (Saturday and Sunday), starting Aug. 13. Some matches, probably in the younger divisions, may be held in the morning, with the majority in the afternoon.

All matches will be held at the new MacMurray College courts at Hardin Avenue and Brook Street.

Trophies will be given to the top two finishers in each division, and to the winner of the consolation bracket of the junior men's singles division. All balls will be furnished by the JOURNAL COURIER.

City Power Host To Taylorville

Jacksonville City Power will be making its final home appearance of the season at Nichols Park, this afternoon, when the local nine entertains Taylorville in a Little Eight League twinbill, starting at 1:30.

Jacksonville will be trying to protect its third place standing in the league, despite coming off a double loss to league-leading Springfield last week, 3-1 and 4-1. City Power has a 5-6 record, while Taylorville, also a double loser last week, has a 4-7 reading. Jacksonville won an earlier meeting between the two clubs, 10-8.

Rich Coble and George Kording are again slated to be the starting pitchers for City Power. Coble, a senior-to-be at JHS, tossed 11 innings and fanned 16 batters against Springfield last week.

DETROIT (AP) — Don Demeter and Eddie Kasko each drove in two runs and Lee Stange shut Detroit out for eight and two-thirds innings as Boston beat Detroit 8-2 Saturday.

The Red Sox ended a five-game losing streak.

Demeter, an ex-Tiger, hit a solo homer in the fourth inning and contributed a run-scoring single in the fifth when the last-place Red Sox scored four runs.

Stange recorded his fourth victory against six losses.

Denny McLain, now 14-9, was relieved in the fourth inning. He has lost five of his last six starts.

Broyles Expects

Bigger Swing To

'T Formation

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Coach Frank Broyles of Arkansas, who admits he adjusts to the formation that's most successful, said Tuesday he anticipated a bigger swing to the T formation in college football this season.

He also said there would be a strong trend to the 5-4 defense instead of 6-2 because pylon football had opened up the offense and brought much more passing.

"We all imitate others," he told the press in an interview at the Texas coaching school, where he is a lecturer on football. "I'll admit I adopted the T when I saw how successful John McKay at Southern California was with it."

Broyles, whose record at Arkansas in the last seven years borders on the sensational—three Southwest Conference championships, two championship ties and a 22-game winning streak—declared that his team faced a terrific fight to keep its head above water this fall.

SHOOTING IN ORDER

ROCKFORD, Ill. (AP) — A foursome stepped to the No. 6 tee at the Rockford Country Club Saturday and, in order, shot a 1, a 2, a 3 and a 4.

Van Anderson got his hole-in-one on the 155-yard hole in the seven-iron. Bob Rosencrance birdied, Andy Charles came through with a par and Jerry Bowman completed the cycle with a bogey.

Clay Marks 5th Defense Of Title

LONDON (AP) — Cassius Clay backed Britain's Brian London into a corner Saturday and belted him to the floor for a third round knockout and the fifth successful defense of his world heavyweight boxing championship.

The time was one minute, 40 seconds.

After toying with the brawler from Clontarf for two rounds, the confident Clay opened up in the third.

He lashed out with two tremendous right hands and backed the Briton into the corner.

Then he scored with a left and right. London crumpled to the canvas and took the full count.

with his head buried on the canvas.

"I hit him with a hard left and right," said Clay, known as Muhammad Ali to the Black Muslim followers. "I threw eight or nine punches, but it was a left and right — the one-two — that got him."

It was the 25th straight victory and 20th by knockout for the lean, coffee-colored Negro from Louisville, Ky., who never has been beaten and who has hardly been scratched in his professional career.

It was only the second clean knockout suffered by the rugged London, who in 11 years of fighting has won 35 lost 13 and been stopped six times.

The bout in Earl's Court Indoor Stadium, scene of Billy Graham's recent religious revival, drew a disappointing — and undoubtedly disappointed — crowd of 13,000, well below the 18,000 capacity.

Millions of Americans witnessed the fight live through Early Bird Satellite (ABC). The Britons had to settle for closed circuit television at 20 theaters.

It was just another good payday for Clay, who has announced a plan to fight once a month until he is called into service by the United States. He has appealed his call-up by the draft board.

The champion was guaranteed 90,000 pounds or $252,000 plus a part of the television monies, and London figured to get around $112,000. Clay is scheduled to meet Germany's Karl Mildenberger at Frankfurt Sept. 10.

Lightly Regarded

An indication of how lightly Clay regarded the test was seen in the fact he weighed in at 209½ pounds, seven pounds heavier than when he stopped Henry Cooper in the sixth round here last May 21.

London weighed 200½.

"You have to give him credit," Clay continued. "He put up a fight for 1½ rounds."

"The man was determined, and I know he butts with his head. I was concentrating on getting in and out. I realized that one butt could mean the fight."

"But, whenever I see an opening — like against Liston — I take it. I'm never out to prove nothing to the public."

"I'm looking forward to the Mildenberger fight," Cassius commented. "I'm glad the fight didn't take too much out of me."

COPS STATE TENNIS TITLE

CHICAGO (AP) — Top-seeded Mrs. Helen Perez of the Bath and Tennis club rallied Saturday to defeat second-seeded Susan Sterrett of Peoria, 6-8, 6-3, 6-2 to win the singles championship of the Illinois State Women's Tennis Tournament.

Mrs. Perez, who represented the United States at Wimbledon in 1953, fell victim to Miss Sterrett's strong serve in the first set but retaliated with powerful forehands and passing shots to pull out the match.

Miss Sterrett, the 1963 state champion, had teamed with Mrs. Barbara Falkner of Urbana Friday to win the doubles title 4-6, 7-5, 7-5 over Mrs. Fan Brown and Mrs. Marge Reed of Owensville.

You can expect denials, but there was a provision in the merger of the American and National football leagues that the NFL would get first crack at the top college quarterbacks in the first common draft to be conducted next January . . . which makes you wonder when Commissioner Pete Rozelle professes to be worried about teams like Denver getting an equitable break in the draft . . .

Brooks Robinson, the Baltimore third baseman driving for most valuable player honors, insists that the only way to be a team leader is to be an outstanding ballplayer . . . "and I think all the guys on the club look up to Frank, and I hope some of them look up to me." . . . They do.

The way the Cleveland Browns have figured out, the absence of Jimmy Brown will make them a better team, balance-wise. Last year there was a 60-40 ratio between running and passing (most teams like to keep it 50-50) . . . "We'll have a good season," said veteran tackle Dick Modzelewski, "if Frank Ryan has a good season." Little Mo looked right at Ryan, too, as he said it. The mathematician blushed but didn't deny it. He only said, "It's still the coach (Blanton Collier) who decides how much I pass."

It was fitting that Al Geiberg, after winning the PGA, should mention his old Southern California schoolmate Mike Keever. Mike's still comatose after an auto accident several months ago, and the expenses are running up to the point that serious fund-raising will be undertaken to assure him proper care. . . .

The question that bugs Dave Nelson most, now that he has stepped down as an active football coach to become athletic director at Delaware: "How does it feel to be doing nothing?" . . . "The next guy asks me that," he vows, "I'm going to punch in the nose. That is, I would if I weren't a devout coward." And just what keeps him busy? "We've got two new buildings going, a field house

HIRAM, Ohio—(NEA) — To get ready for his 14th season of professional football, Dick Modzelewski—more familiarly known as Little Mo—went to his farm outside Cleveland and pitched 2,300 bales of hay and dug 50 fence post holes.

Then he reported with the veterans for the training camp of the Cleveland Browns here in bucolic northern Ohio, sat down in a chair and promptly found out he couldn't get up. His back had gone out of whack.

Dick wasn't exactly moaning. He skipped the early muscle stretching that's such a pain to the older players. But he's already at his playing weight of 241 pounds, which comes as something of a shock because I've been nurtured to believe that Mo, with his broad shoulders that begin where his head leaves off, always weighed around 260.

"If I were a coach," he said, "I wouldn't take me—too small nowadays to be a defensive tackle. I guess when I came to the league with the Washington Redskins my first year I weighed 255, but by the time I got to New York in 1956, I was down."

"Listen, I'm Polack dumb. I figured out that the older you got, the less weight you should carry, or you'd lose your quickness."

When Mo came into professional football, he recalled, there were only a dozen guys in the entire National League who weighed over 250 pounds. Now you check the roster of the Los Angeles Rams and you find that their lightest defensive lineman teeters at 260.

Modzelewski publishes the entire area of the popularity of pro ball. And the salary spiral that finds obscure linemen checking in at $100,000.

"I didn't have no lawyer with me when I went to sign my first contract," he mused as he lounged in Brooks Hall on the firm campus where the Browns make their summer headquarters. "I brought my father to check the contract. He couldn't read or write."

Mo, an All-American tackle at Maryland on the heels of his brother, Ed, who was an All-American fullback, was the number two draft choice of the Redskins.

"I looked at my father and asked should I sign. He says, 'How much?'
"I told him $4,500 a year. He said, 'Sign it. It's more than you'll make in the coal mines.'"
Mo was traded to the Pittsburgh Steelers and then to New York after giant players in their game reports had mentioned him as the toughest lineman they faced.

"I made," he grinned, "their all-opponent team."
That's all he ever made, too, in his 13 full seasons as a pro. Little Mo played on six Eastern Conference champions with the and phys ed headquarters, that cost $5 million." . . . Dave also reveals that the closest he came to leaving the small school environment was when Illinois offered him the head football job in 1959. . . . "Then I figured a coach is bound to wind up in administration. And I was already there."

Nelson also once had a combination head-coach-athletic-director offer from Baylor. But it involved bonuses on a sliding scale according to where his team finished in the Southwest Conference. "Those Texans," he shudders, "scare me."

Everything's up to date in Anaheim, even the organizer. He's a fellow named Shay Torment who used to commute to Comiskey Park in Chicago, from Santa Barbara, to rattle the pipes. Got a sense of humor, too. When deadpan Norm Siebern comes up, he plays, "The Shadow of Your Smile." For third baseman Paul Schaal, it's "My Shawl," and a rumba beat. "The manager trots out to the pitcher's mound for a conference, and he breaks in with 'Climb Every Mountain.'"

It's not pure propaganda that has Norb Hecker, the new coach of the Atlanta Falcons, so high on Randy Johnson, who played at obscure Texas A & I but figures as the top passer of the new team once he gets over his cracked ribs. Hecker reveals that when he was on the Green Bay staff, the Packers had Johnson rated the No. 1 quarterback prospect in the country.

Why Frank Robinson is content in Baltimore: he has made more money there in a couple of months, from endorsements, appearances, etc., than he made in 10 years in Cincinnati. . . . Jack Sanford, enjoying a phenomenal comeback with the California Angels at 37, finds his kids rooting for him to keep on pitching, too, but he's suspicious: "I think it's because they want to live out here, close to Disneyland."

Between you'n'me, there's still unrest in the structure of professional golf, with the tour regulars wanting to break away from their club teaching brethren. . . .

Giants, but he was never voted to the Pro Bowl. 44
During his time, however, the great defensive platoon of the Giants created a whole new concept of football in the minds of fans. The defense became the glamor part. A lot of it was stimulated by a television show. The Violent World of Sam Huff, a Twentieth Century production, and Little Mo was a featured performer.

"They had me driving Sam up to the training camp," he recalled, "to start the show. Then he said, 'Take my bags, Mo.'"

"And I said, 'Aw, #@%--'. 'Only they yelled, 'Cut!' " "And they convinced me to carry them up. I had a cousin who lived in West Virginia, where Huff came from, and all the time they kidded him about me being Sam's valet. And I used to tell him that was a lot of bull."

"So this show comes out with me driving Sam around and carrying his bags."

But the years have been good to Mo. He and Ed own a big restaurant in Cleveland and a big farm. He has only a slight touch of gray around the temples. His back has bothered him since Swede Svara, his own Giant teammate, bumped him on a play in 1957, but hasn't interfered with his mobility, which is how Mo compensates for his relative lack of size.

When he came to Cleveland in 1964, the Browns promptly won their first title in six years, and a lot of the credit went to Mo for breeding a winning attitude. At the age of 35, he hasn't got far to go.

"This," he announced quietly, "will be my last year. Charley Conerly always told me to quit when it still hurts on Sunday afternoon after the Sunday before."

"Right now, I'm up to Saturday night."

'Acceptance' Finally Here For The AFL

By SANDY PADWE
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

NEW YORK — (NEA) — For six years, the American Football League heard why it was inferior to the National League.

Then last June 8, about 4 p.m. Eastern time, some 360 employees of nine AFL teams switched on their radios or picked up their local papers and learned they no longer were inferior, but equal.

"Acceptance," said Jim Tyrer of the Kansas City Chiefs, "is what we've been fighting for all these years and now we have it. They accepted our ability when they decided to go through with the merger."

Tyrer, a six-year man with the Chiefs, was questioned in a special pool of AFL player representatives to determine reaction to the merger.

Denver's Eldon Danenhauer, another six-year man, served as the Broncos' player representative until a few weeks ago when he announced his retirement from pro football to enter business. His sentiments, however, speak for most of the players who have been in the AFL since its inception.

"I feel a pride of accomplishment in the merger," Danenhauer said. "We had to overcome an awful lot of gripes from their side over the years. Now they've accepted us."

Jack Kemp of the Buffalo Bills is another charter member of the AFL.

"My first reaction," he said, "was elation. Those of us who have grown up with the league are proud of its growth."

"My main worry now is preserving the identity of the American League after 1970 when everything goes into effect."

And how will the AFL fare in competition with the NFL?

"I think we're very close to the NFL in personnel," said Boston's Tom Addison, who also played in the NFL with the Colts and Eagles. "What we lack is depth. They've simply had more players to work with."

"When you look at some of the individuals we have in this league, they're stronger than some of the NFL and vice versa," Danenhauer said. "I don't think there is any one team in our league that would be embarrassed in a game against the NFL. Buffalo, Kansas City and San Diego can match their top teams and Denver, New York, Houston, Boston and Oakland can match their middle teams."

"I don't agree either that they the stronger quarterbacks. How many Unitates and Stars are there? Jack Kemp could hold his own in the NFL and John Hadl (San Diego) is a very learned quarterback. Joe Namath (New York) has yet to reach his potential."

"I've always maintained," said Houston's Fred Glick, "that our stronger teams are on par with theirs. Now we'll find out."

"We've heard a lot," Tyrer said, "how our quarterbacks and defensive secondary can't match theirs. I don't believe it. Football is a game of mental attitude. The team that makes the least mistakes the day of the championship game will win. I don't believe in paper comparisons. The only real comparison is out there on the field."

"The main thing in everyone's mind," adds Ernie Wright of San Diego, "is the competition between the leagues. The championship is going to be a catalyst for better performances all year. If you win that game, it's going to be a nice Christmas."

Switching to a totally different area, the American League's pension plan has caused concern among some of the representatives.

Jack Kemp, president of the AFL Players Association, also is a member of the pension committee. "The pension," he said, "will be brought to parity with the NFL by 1970. I have been assured that I will sit down with the league committee and Mr. Ralph Wilson (also members of the committee) and pursue the means by which we can upgrade the plan for those founding players who will retire before 1970."

"I feel it is the good intention of the owners, and the players association to maximize the retirement plan for these players at the earliest possible date."

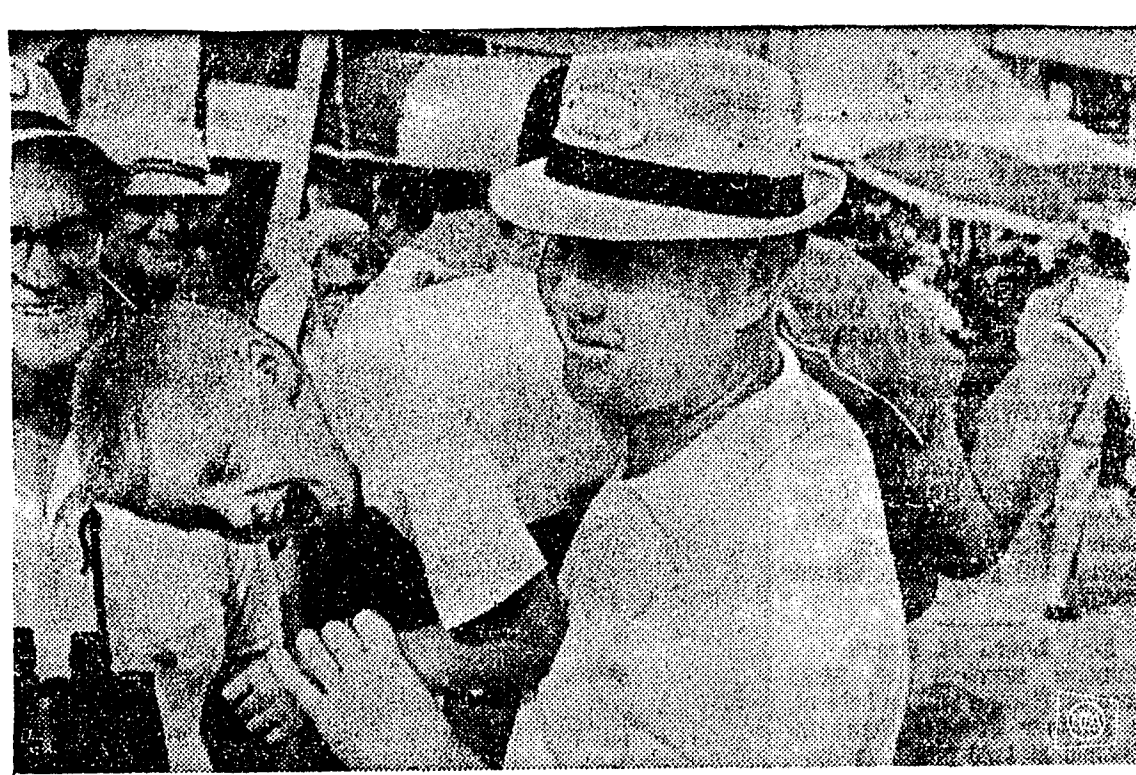

On the subject of salaries, options and possible anti-trust action against pro football, Kemp's opinion was considerably shorter: "No comment."

The other representatives, however, were more talkative. "I don't think the vets will see a lot of the money," said Oakland's Wayne Hawkins. "The owners will try to recoup the money they've given out the last few years in rookie bonuses. It's just smart business to save and make a profit. They should make it, too."

"Already the people in the Bay Area are talking about a game between the Raiders and 49ers. They won't be able to build a stadium big enough to accommodate the fans for that one."

As for options

"The option," Addison said, "is sort of shot with the merger. The only place you can go

Goalby Grabs Lead In Cleveland Open

CLEVELAND (AP) — Determined Bob Goalby came through with a clutch chip shot for a birdie on the 18th hole Saturday and snared the third round lead in the $100,000 Cleveland Open Golf Tournament with a 54-hole total of 199.

The 35-year-old pro from Belleville, Ill., posted a strong seven-under-par 64 in an almost flawless round of golf.

He clung to a one-stroke lead after withstanding a furious charge by lanky 26-year-old Dick Sikes, who made a shambles of the 6,777-yard par 36-35 x-played late night game.

Brad Wofford has resigned as football and track coach at Pana High school to take a teaching position at Bloomington High school. Don Cramer of Pekin has been hired as assistant basketball coach and cross country coach at Farmington High, according to Walter Grebe, Athletic director. Ron Ellberg will be head track coach and he will continue as varsity football coach of the Farmers, succeeding John Fulkrod who has moved to Oregon, Ill. High school.

Rich Donnelly has resigned as Frosh basketball coach at Farmington High to take the head basketball coaching job at Hartsburg-Emden High school. He is a former star basketball player at Kankakee High and Bradley University.

Frank Chizevsky Jr. has been named assistant football and wrestling coach at Eastern Illinois University. He is a native of Newton and coached football at Lakeview High of Decatur two years and served as assistant coach at Decatur high five years.

Roger L. Williams has resigned as football coach at Bremen High (Midlothian) to take the backfield coach job at Illinois State University at Normal. He is a native of Cleveland and formerly coached the varsity as assistant in football at Evanston High.

Bradley University has lost another fine player for the 1968-69 season as Alex McNutt from Benton Harbor, Michigan has been dropped from the squad. He had been a regular for the last two seasons and was cut off the list by Coach Joe Stowell because of failure to comply with training rules.

Coach Stowell, who is starting his second year as varsity basketball coach, said "It does put us on a bind for next year," but would not elaborate on the announcement. McNutt became the fourth starter from last season's team and the seventh of the top eight players who will not return for the 1968-69 campaign. Tom Campbell and Willie Betts were dropped for scholastic failures while Eddie Jackson, Ernie Thompson, Ron Martin and Lee Frederick graduated last June.

Phil Dynan has been appointed sports information director at Western Illinois University. He has 17 years experience in the field of athletic public relations and coaching including five at St. Louis University. He resigned a similar position at the University of Kansas this month and he is a brother of Bradley University sports information director Jim Dynan. Phil Dynan succeeded the late Don Pierce at the University of Kansas in January, 1965, coming from West Virginia Tech where he had served as director of public relations and sports information.

Former Peoria Richwoods High school athlete Bill Geurin has been named head basketball and baseball coach at Wabash Valley College at Mt. Carmel. He was frosh basketball coach at Eastern Illinois University last season and he becomes the first full time coach for the rapidly growing junior college. He started a record of 97 varsity basketball games at Eastern Illinois University in four seasons.

Glen Strausbaugh has resigned as football and basketball coach at Cuba High school. He is a native of Rushville and taught English in the high school. Cecil Harn is in his second year as Athletic director at Canton High. He is a native of Table Grove, graduated at Western Illinois University and coached at Wyanet and Dunlap High schools. Gary Little, former star basketball player at Jacksonville high under Coach John Chapman, is assistant coach and commerce teacher at Valley High in Fairview and resides with his wife in Canton.

Donald Pinder, principal at Canton Junior High, has been informed that Canton will be the site for the State heavyweight basketball tourney next March for the third consecutive year. Pittsfield beat Canton for

NEW YORK (AP) — Mike Shannon's eighth inning single scored Curt Flood who had singled, stolen second and gone to third when Met catcher Johnny Stephenson threw wild trying to nail him.

Shannon's hit came off Met reliever Jack Hamilton and Charley Smith's seventh homer in the ninth added the final day.

— RUNNING — Tucker Frederickson's in line to take over Jim Brown's mantle as fullback supreme. Gets universal respect. His running mates tend to mediocrity, though. Steve Thurlow, Jones as the split end. Joe Morrison, the veteran handy man, has settled down as a flanker, and Aaron Thomas is stabilized as tight end (though he's also swift enough for flanker.) But Freeman White, up from Nebraska, will push them. RATING—B — RECEIVING — The old order changeth slowly. Del Shofner's back, but he's going to need a revival to stave off Homer fumble prone, might be supplanted by Ernie Koy. Smith Reed has more speed than any of them. RATING—B+

LINE—The strength is in the middle, where Greg Larson (amazing comeback case after bad knee) is shouldered on both sides by Bookie Bolin and Pete Case. But tackles are in bad shape since Rosey Brown came down with plebeitis. That's why No. 1 rookie Francis Peay is so vital in planning, Jim Moran's working at offensive tackle, too. RATING—B

KICKING—It better be good for all the fuss raised over signing of Pete Gogolak. Gogo will immediately ease the field goal deficiency which plagued them last year. For punting, Koy gets them high, if not ultra far, and reduces returns. RATING—A

DEFENSE

LINE—Last year's merry-go-round will be stopped if Don Davis, a California giant, asserts himself at a tackle spot. Nobody's going to beat out Jim Katcavage at one end, and Rosey Davis looks like he's ready to take over at right end. Still leaves one tackle to go because John Lovetere's knee is so bad he is out for the year. Could be Jim Prestel, ex-Viking, or even Lou Slaby. RATING—B

LINEBACKING—Jerry Hillebrand found a home at the middle spot last year, but the corner boys—Bill Swain, Jim Carroll, Olen Underwood—find themselves squeezed by Jeff Smith, a tremendous physical specimen from USC, for at least one of the corner spots. It's still a young, inexperienced unit. RATING—C+

SECONDARY—Dick Lynch, Jim Patton go back almost as far as modern success of Giants, but they'll be lucky this year to stave off the youth movement started last year by Emilen's Gremlins. The potentially best, Willie Williams, skipped off to Oakland, but still around are Spider Lockhart, Henry Carr, Clarence Childs, Rookie Phil Harris, ex-Cool Wendell Harris figure, too. RATING—B

SUMMARY—The Giants were something of a miracle team last year with their fluid defense. They gambled on a lot of blitzing and got by with it against the weaker teams. The defense is still in something of a state of flux and the offensive line lacks tackles, so they'll be doing well to repeat their .500 record. PREDICTION—FOURTH.

The Phils broke a 3-3 tie in the sixth when Clay Dalrymple led off with a double and Clemens, batting for winning pitcher Chris Short, singled to right.

John Briggs followed with a single to center, sending Clemens to third, and Rojas scored him with a punt to the mound.

The Braves scored a run in the seventh and closed the gap again in the ninth after Briggs' eighth inning homer gave the Phils a 6-4 margin.

Felipe Alou's third single, a walk and a single by Rico Carty accounted for the Braves' run in the seventh. Hank Aaron doubled in the ninth and scored on Mack Jones' single.

A bases-loaded wild pitch by Atlanta starter Joey Jay and Johnny Callison's two-run single staked Short to a 3-0 lead in the second inning.

Denis Menke homered for the Braves in the third and they added a run in the fourth before tying it 3-3 in the top of the sixth on a double by Joe Torre and a single by Jones.

Minor Arrested In Chalet Late Friday Night

A 20-year-old Jacksonville young woman was arrested in the Chalet tavern, next to the Illinois Hotel, about 11 o'clock Friday night and charged tentatively with illegal possession of liquor.

City police made the arrest inside the tavern which is owned by the Bagdad Corporation, 238 East State. The name of the girl was not announced pending filing of formal charges.

An appeal to the Illinois Liquor Control Commission was heard in Springfield July 25 on a charge of alleged sale to a minor last March 23.

Byron Holkenbrink, liquor control commissioner of Jacksonville, ordered the liquor license of the Chalet revoked in April. The Bagdad Corporation filed their appeal with the state board but no decision has been handed down.

No further charges were made against the operators of the tavern Friday night, pending further investigation by detectives.

NEW NIGHTSTICK — Jacksonville city police are now carrying an aerosol tear gas bomb instead of a nightstick. The gas is harmless but effective for about 30-minutes, and is used to quell unruly individuals.

End Of An Era --

Jacksonville Police Replace Nightstick With Tear Gas Bomb

Jacksonville city police have all but eliminated the common nightstick with an aerosol can of tear gas which officers on duty carry at all times.

Smaller and lighter than a flashlight, the tear gas bomb is carried in a black case which hangs from the belt.

It shoots small water pellets in "shotgun" bursts which become a tear gas chemical when in contact with the skin.

The gas is completely harmless, but like other tear gas, causes tears to flow thick and fast. So fast, near blindness is the result, until the gas wears off.

It is used most effectively against individuals. The spray is a tiny stream which does not cover a wide area, like other forms of tear gas.

It has not been used in action yet by Jacksonville police officers, who started carrying the new weapon about a week ago. "It looks like just the thing we've been looking for—a long time," Police Chief Charles P. Runkel said.

"We're concerned for the protection of any person in a crazed fighting mood, and for the safety of the police officer. This is harmless, but very effective for about 30-minutes."

Chief Runkel said he has instructed officers to use the spray with the discretion they would use with any other weapon. All members of the force have used the spray on themselves to see what it would be like with other persons.

Runkel said the intent of the spray is to eliminate the nightstick, or "billy club" carried by

WOMAN INJURED IN CAR-TRUCK CRASH SATURDAY

An elderly Jacksonville woman was admitted to Passavant hospital shortly before ten o'clock Saturday morning, following a car-truck accident at the intersection of South Fayette and Chambers Streets.

Taken to the hospital by ambulance was 73-year-old Gladys B. Bud, 1011 West College. The attending physician said Mrs. Budd suffered multiple lacerations, abrasions and bruises. Hospital attendants described her condition as "good."

Investigating city police said Mrs. Budd was the driver of a car headed north on Fayette when it collided in the intersection with an eastbound pickup truck, operated by 22-year-old Arthur E. Strawn of Alexander.

Police said the Budd car continued onto an embankment, knocking down a street sign and striking a utility pole.

Both vehicles sustained heavy damage and had to be towed from the scene.

Officers said Mrs. Budd would be cited for failure to yield the right of way.

Republicans Endorse New Revenue Article At Peoria Meeting

By CHARLES WHALEN
PEORIA, Ill. (AP) — A platform putting Republicans on record in favor of the proposed revenue article was adopted Saturday at the GOP state convention over opposition from the large DuPage County delegation.

The platform dealt briefly with the controversial plan. State Treasurer William J. Scott, who had recommended a strong plank, said he would accept the final draft.

Elmer Hoffman of Wheaton, DuPage County chairman and a powerful party figure, attempted to block approval of the revenue amendment but was voted down by the convention delegates.

Hoffman, who opposes the article, failed in an attempt to recess the convention for a brief time in order to line up opposition arguments to the proposal.

"I'm against it because it would permit a state income tax," Hoffman told newsmen. "There should be more time and testimony taken before the party commits itself to it."

The section on the Revenue Article, to be voted upon in November, read: "We favor the adoption of the proposed Revenue article. It prohibits the enactment of a graduated income tax and limits the power of the legislature in enacting any income tax which it now has the power to enact under the present revenue article."

"The Republican party is opposed to unnecessary expenditures, is opposed to increases in taxes, and is opposed to the enactment of any state income tax."

The platform took a two-sided approach to the question of open housing in Illinois.

The approved plank said no one should be denied the opportunity to live where he wishes because of race, religion or national origin.

It also affirmed as "one of the fundamental concepts on which right of an individual to use and dispose of his open property as he sees fit."

Open housing has been the aim of a current drive by Negro civil rights leaders in Chicago which led to clashes with residents of white neighborhoods on the city's Southwest and Northwest sides.

The open housing resolution said: "We subscribe wholeheartedly to the proposition that no man should be denied the opportunity to live where he wishes because of his race, religion or national origin."

"We believe also that the right of an individual to use or dispose of his property as he wishes is one of the fundamental concepts on which the nation is founded."

"We believe that the real advancement of equal rights for all will be secured through positive programs designed to provide economic growth, education and human understanding through community cooperation against any discrimination whatsoever."

In other action the 1,500 convention delegates, enunciated a position on anti-crime legislation and backed the proposed constitution.

Ky Says He'll Bow Out

South Vietnamese Premier Ky's announcement that he will not be a candidate for president has occasioned some surprise. His assertion that he hopes to quit politics and concentrate on running the air force seems inconsistent with his effort in recent months to strengthen and prolong his grasp on the reins of government.

Though Ky may now mean what he says, various things could happen to persuade him against such a course. He would not be the first politician, for example, to renounce power and then change his mind in response to a "draft." And aside from what Ky himself may do, it would be mistaken to conclude that his statement marks the beginning of the end of military domination of the Saigon government.

Ky himself predicted, doubtless on the basis of inside information, that Lt. Gen. Nguyen Van Thieu, chief of state and chairman of the ruling military junta, would run for the presidency in the elections scheduled for early next year. He would stand a chance of election, and if chosen would not be expected to shift policy far from the lines now being followed by the junta. His present associates, including General Ky, doubtless would continue to play a significant policy-forming role.

This is all speculative. But so is almost anything else connected with the future of South Vietnam. One may hope that the constitutional assembly to be elected in September will write a sound document. One may further hope that those chosen to run the government, possibly as soon as next February, will make the new constitution a true guarantee of the people's rights. One may hope that Ky's expressed yen to get out of politics signalizes a trend among the military. But one cannot count on all or indeed any of these things.

Drug Evaluation Starts

Work has begun on the important task of closing a huge gap in evaluation of the effectiveness of drugs. When the task of evaluation has been completed, there will be far better protection of the interests of the public than now exists.

Congressional revision of drug control law in 1962 required that from then on drug manufacturers must substantiate the claims made for their new products — must, in other words, satisfy the Food and Drug Administration that their new drugs would do what the manufacturers said they would do. Prior to that year, manufacturers were required only to prove a new drug's safety, not its efficacy. This left a gap, however — the drugs brought into the market prior to 1962. The amendment accordingly also said that drugs placed on the market since 1938 must be subjected to evaluation for efficacy. It is this gap that is now being filled, with the National Academy of Sciences doing the work under an FDA grant.

The task is monumental, since a vast number of new drugs were marketed between 1938 and 1962. The present objective is to classify the drugs into broad categories of effectiveness by the end of 1967. It is hoped that the entire job can be finished within a couple of years. This undertaking is of great importance as a further step in assuring that drugs are effective as well as merely not harmful.

Justice Nil if Ho Tries Flyers

By RAY CROMLEY
Washington Correspondent
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
WASHINGTON (NEA) — It may take quite some doing to prevent Ho Chi Minh from trying captured American flyers as "war criminals."

A former ranking officer in Ho Chi Minh's setup outlined the technique. "When we took over a new place," he said, "we'd pick one of the best old officials and bring him to trial and convict him."

"This would bring people into line quicker than anything else. The fact that he wasn't guilty of anything made our point. It convinced people that we were in control—that we had the power and the will to do what we wanted and that no one could stop us."

Tung Chi-ping, the young Peking diplomat who defected in Africa, tells the story of the Chinese teacher of French in a Shanghai school. The man's only sin was that he was an excellent teacher and popular with the students.

For that, Tung relates, the teacher had to be disgraced. Because he was a good teacher and liked, he was in that sense a rival to the party, even though he took no interest in politics and showed no hint of disloyalty. Students might come to look to him instead of the party leaders.

Tung also mentions the case where a number of students slowed down their "voluntary" work in protest against an arbitrary action by their Communist leaders.

The Communists didn't take action against the guilty. They picked the most popular boy in the class and ordered that he be disgraced. They forced his classmates to falsely accuse him of stealing, and of other fictitious crimes.

His fellow students, who killed and admired this boy, were forced into a screaming frenzy against him. They spit on him and hit him repeatedly.

After the trial he was expelled from the school and sent to manual labor clearing land on the frontier. Tung says "everyone in the class was sick with revulsion."

But the Communists made their point. The fact that the boy personally was innocent of any wrongdoing or any personal action against the Reds was immaterial. He was popular. He was a leader. He was strong. By disgracing him, the Reds brought the students into line.

If Ho runs true to form, he will subject some American flyers to elaborate trials, with false accusations and false fabricated "confessions."

In Ho's experience, such trials should bring doubting and defeatist North Vietnamese, high and low, into line.

By humiliating these brave American flyers the trials would be aimed at making Ho's officials and the North Vietnamese people less afraid of U.S. power.

But these trials would likely not have the effect that Ho imagines. They might brace his people for a short period. When the raids continue, as they will, the trials will probably boomerang.

Favors Reversing Work Roles Of Young And Old

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Many a man hates the idea of compulsory retirement at the age of 65. "It's unfair," he says. "Work is the only thing left that I really enjoy. Why should it be taken away from me?"

On the other hand, many a young college graduate at 21 or 22 hates the idea of having to settle down to the responsibility of a job.

"It's unfair," he says. "I want to live a little, see the world. Why should I have to spend nearly 45 years on a treadmill before I can get a pension? It looks like I'll be forever in Dullsville."

Well, perhaps these complaining old men and young men have a point. Maybe we ought to reverse present practices and let the young work less and the old men work longer.

It could be worked out somewhat as follows:

Carrying his ink-wet sheepskin in hand, Ned Bumble, just turned 22, creeps in fearfully for his first day on his new job.

"Glad to have you with us, Ned," says the personnel executive. "We've decided to start you at a pension of $10,000 annually for the first three years. You've earned a good rest, so enjoy it."

"Come back to see me on your 25th birthday, and we'll begin putting your nose to the grindstone."

Ned, happily worn out from traveling the world and chasing the girls, returns three years later and huddles down at $20,000 a year.

These are his orders: "Just show up on Tuesdays, Wednesdays and Thursdays, and drop in Fridays to pick up your check. Don't bother to come in on Mondays at all. No follow your age is really strong enough to face work on Mondays. Naturally, we're giving you six weeks of vacation."

Well, Ned marries, has some kids, buys a house, and slowly begins settling into life's routine.

At 35, he is patted on the back by the personnel executive and informed: "You're doing fine, Ned. As a reward, we're cutting your pay to $10,000 and your vacation to four weeks. And by the way, from now on you can come in on Mondays, too — if you really want to."

Cheered by this, Ned, who is now slowly getting over his playboy habits, looks forward to more promotions in the future.

They come steadily. At 45 his salary is trimmed to $7,500 and his vacation to three weeks. At 55 he is cut to $5,000 his vacation to two weeks.

It's nice. It holds the heat very well. —Casey Stengel, while coaching All-Star game in plus 100 degree temperatures in brand new Busch Stadium.

Well, Luci, Will That Secret Service Man, Etc.?

By WASHINGTON STAFF

Newspaper Enterprise Assn. WASHINGTON (NEA) — Observers were highly impressed by Luci Baines Johnson's style at the recent press party when she announced she and fiancé Patrick Nugent had rented an "old brick" duplex in Austin, Tex. Though Luci appeared relaxed and easy, she was always in command of the situation.

When a reporter asked if a Secret Service agent would be guarding her while she and Pat were attending class in Austin, Luci answered:

"A law was enacted while my father was vice president which covers Secret Service protection for members of the president's family. You'll have to check that for the answer."

Another reporter, who apparently had already read the law, quickly interjected:

"Will he live in the duplex with you and Pat?"

Luci, unperturbed, simply waited for the next question.

Defense Secretary Robert McNamara's cost — reduction program is under heavy fire in the Pentagon. Some critics claim his savings are "phony," illustrating the contention by this apocryphal story:

McNamara's son came home and proudly announced he had saved 25 cents. "Instead of riding the bus," he said, "I ran home beside it."

"That's great," replied McNamara. "Tomorrow save $1.50. Run home beside a taxi."

In a slightly different vein, someone tacked this notice on a Pentagon bulletin board:

June 20, 1876—Defense officials have lauded Gen. George Custer, commander of the 7th Cavalry, for his decision to save money by not taking the new Gatling guns into the field during his annual campaign in the Dakota Territories against Blackfeet and Sioux.

"Custer's decision is expected to save $1,760 in feed for horses to pull the wheeled Gatlings as well as $48.50 in additional maintenance if the new and delicate weapons were to be exposed to dust and field conditions."

Custer and his command, of course, were wiped out on the Little Big Horn River.

FINDING THE WAY

The Pledge of Allegiance Is Not a Pious Platitude

Dr. Loew

By RALPH W. LOEW, D.D.

Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

At a recent national convention, a statement concerning the relations of church and state was under consideration.

The comment had been thoroughly debated and the moment for the final vote was at hand. At that precise juncture, a delegate arose to make an amendment which would have added the words of the "Pledge of Allegiance."

"It might have been a sticky parliamentary problem, for to vote for its exclusion was like voting against one's country. Or voting in opposition to motherhood. The presiding officer handled the issue skillfully and the event passed. Yet it's remembered as a symbol of the way in which we attempt to take good words of faith in all of the areas of life and turn them into fetishes.

The Pledge of Allegiance is a rather recent addition to the American statement of national purpose. Written in 1892 by Francis Bellamy, its amendment occurred in 1954 when the words "under God" were added.

Children have joined with adults in this much-quoted pledge which deserves better than inane usage, banality or oversentimentalization.

The Pledge of Allegiance raises the important issue of values guaranteed by the Declaration of Independence and Constitution. We are assured that liberty and justice are not political gifts. These were not gratuities dispensed by the government to law-abiding citizens. We witness to the world that these are inalienable rights. They grow out of the very nature of man. They have deep spiritual rootage.

Without consideration and constant scrutiny, such a pledge can become so meaningless that it could be repeated by a person in any number of situations without thought. For instance, the generally gentle, civilized and cultured citizens of South Africa can tolerate a government which places its critics under house arrest.

So a man who criticizes the racial policies of that government is in danger of being denied the right of attending a public meeting, visiting with his relatives after dark and denied any of the privileges of society. Yet this can be justified by men who dub a man such as Alan Paton as an enemy of the state.

Any of us rationalize our compromises with our ideals and justify our injustices while all of the time "pledging allegiance." My definition of a free society," said Adlai Stevenson, "is a society where it is safe to be unpopular."

It is in this understanding of the rights which guarantee our responsibilities and the responsibilities which defend our rights that we find the expression of liberty and justice. This fine statement deserves to be more than a pious platitude or empty cliché. It ought to be more than just a kind of empty seal of patriotism. It demands that daily scrutiny which is always demanded of liberty and of justice, the recommitment of an individual to something more than just mouthing the words.

Coping With Unmanliness

By MURIEL LAWRENCE

Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

DEAR MRS. LAWRENCE: You recently said something that worries me. You were writing about a group of boys with irresponsible "pal" type fathers and how they regarded their mothers as "dominating ogres" for trying to establish some control of them. You said that mothers married to unmanly men were mistaken to try to be substitute fathers. What else can we do, Mrs. Lawrence?

Surely you didn't mean that we should just let the children go haywire . . .

ANSWER: No, I don't think we can just let the children go haywire. But I think it's even more important not to let ourselves go haywire.

It's vital that we remember we are women who need a man's strength instead of pretending we don't. Married to an undeveloped man, it is only too easy to tell ourselves that we don't need him, that we can do it all.

For every time we've reached for it, it just hasn't been there. Disappointment after disappointment piles up until it hardens into the conviction that manly strength isn't available anywhere. Finally, in a kind of grim despair of which we are not fully conscious, we say to ourselves, "All right, I'll make a woman."

It's usual to tell unhusbanded mothers that their children need "relationship" to some genuine male figure. Well, if the kids to tell ourselves that we don't need him, that we can do it all.

That being our case, a nice for every time we've reached for it, it just hasn't been there. It's then we can turn ourselves into "dominating ogres." We're not ogres at all, of course. We're just horribly appointed women who are trying to be too brave, too strong. We're also very angry. Because the retardate to whom we are married cannot be a man, he also makes it impossible for us to be a woman. Yet that's what we are. And when we human beings are not allowed to be what we are, we are bound to become furiously angry.

Thus, women who are not allowed to be women get furiously angry. Our discipline of our children becomes bitter, too commanding, too complaining. We start banging about and yelling at them in order to stop them from being what they are, too.

It's usual to tell unhusbanded mothers that their children need "relationship" to some genuine male figure. Well, if the kids to tell ourselves that we don't need him, that we can do it all.

Dear Ann:

By ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann Landers: I am employed as a personnel director of a large company. Every day I interview dozens of young men and women who are looking for jobs. Some days I could cry.

Many of the teenagers come in without high school diplomas. They want to work but they are not qualified to do anything. They must start at the bottom of the ladder. And they are doomed to stay there.

I hear the same story all day long. "I hate school. I want to get a job so my boyfriend and I can get married. I want to move out of the house and be on my own."

Please let them see the following advice. Maybe they'll take it from you, Ann Landers.

(1) Finish high school before you go job-hunting.

Maybe, as some Chinese is supposed to have said one time, a picture is worth 1,000 words. But sometimes the photograph gives a mighty inaccurate impression.

This photo, taken by Bill Hood, from a low angle would make most viewers feel that they are looking at a big Southdown ewe and a pretty good sized girl.

But the facts are that Zelda, the ewe, was the smallest ewe in the champion show and Debbie Bergschneider, 9, was the smallest competitor.

For the past few years Nancy Middleton, rural route 2, has had clear sailing in the Southdown class of the Junior Fair sheep show, but Wednesday she had competition from Debbie and Zelda, and Zelda—truly a pet—won the blue ribbon.

Debbie is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Bergschneider of near Waverly and the kid sister of this year's 4-H Queen.

Robert Middleton, superintendent of the sheep show, noticed Debbie and Zelda and said, "Gosh, there's a good picture." The judge, Melvin Sims of Macomb, said, "I'd sure like to go with the crowd and pick that little Southdown as grand champion, but that's one of the things you'd like to do that you can't. That Hampshire and that Suffolk are just too good."

What A Life?

An extremely fine Duroc Jersey boar, with a double-kink in his tail, was "registed" Friday morning. He didn't care a fig that he was named the grand champion boar of the Junior Fair Swine show.

But his owner, John Potter, 12, was all smiles when he accepted the trophy from Miss Linda Spangler, Morgan County Pork Queen.

John is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Carman Potter, rural route 2, and a member of the Lynnville Hustlers 4-H club.

Friday Deadline For ACP Sign-up

The sign-up period for Soil Conservation Practices under the Agricultural Conservation Program began Monday, Aug. 1 and will continue through Friday, Aug. 12 at the Morgan County A.S.C.S. office on Permac Road.

Producers may sign for limestone and rock phosphate that will be used during the last five months of this year. The material must be applied according to soil test and must be used in connection with soil improving grasses and legumes. These legumes or grasses must remain on the ground through two consecutive summer crop seasons after the materials have been applied. A soil test must be on file before a request for assistance can be approved.

If interested in other ACP practices check with the ASCS Office to see if they are available during the period to Aug. 12, says Office Manager Wallace H. Hembrough.

After the above sign-up period has ended requests for practices can be accepted only if funds are available.

Evidence for practices, limestone and rock phosphate completed by July 31, 1966 or for the first sign-up period must be turned in at the Morgan County A.S.C.S. office by August 12.

New Insurance Plan For Wheat

An improved All-Risk Insurance protection plan offering increased production guarantees is now available for winter wheat growers, according to the Federal Crop Insurance Corporation, an agency of the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

The new insurance protection idea will be offered to wheat growers in central, south central and east central Illinois immediately, according to Robert Hitt, district director for central Illinois.

Hitt heads USDA's Federal Crop Insurance Corporation in twenty-four Illinois counties.

"The improved insurance plan will be written for the first time for winter wheat planted this fall," Hitt said. He also pointed out that growers, in taking advantage of the more attractive wheat insurance plan, should keep in mind that wheat acreage allotments have been increased.

"Increased protection is a result of FCIC's long-standing policy of keeping up with the times by recognizing the changing needs of growers and their ever-increasing production costs," according to the FCIC official.

It was explained by Hitt that the All-Risk program is designed to protect the farmer's investments in their current crops against loss by drought, excessive moisture, plant diseases, insects, hail, storms and for any act of nature beyond their control.

Easy Does It!

The quietest pair in the finals of the Junior Fair swine show Friday morning was Steve Aggerett and his champion heavyweight barrow, a very classy 195 pound Poland China. They didn't get excited about anything.

Aggerett, 18, has an Ashland post office address, but he lives in Cass county and belongs to the Circleville 4-H club.

Some Warehouses Ineligible For Crop Loans

Grain stored in commercial warehouses will be eligible for price support only if the warehouse has a uniform grain storage agreement with the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

This reminder to farmers in Morgan County is issued by Lester E. Martin, chairman of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation committee.

Martin said that farmers who plan to store wheat or other grain in a commercial warehouse should make sure that the elevator or warehouse has signed a uniform grain storage agreement with the Commodity Credit Corp.

"If there is any doubt, farmers should ask the warehousemen, or they could inquire at the ASCS county office," Martin advises.

The local USDA official said that not all warehousemen who had agreements last year had signed agreements this year. Those who had agreements last year are covered during the interim period in much the same way that an insurance policy is.

CHRISTMAS TREE GROWERS HAVE A NEW PEST

Christmas tree growers in Illinois are faced with a new hazard. It is the PALES Weevil.

This insect has been present in Illinois for a long time but only recently has it become economically important.

The adults of this weevil feed on the bark of small pine and the small branches of larger pine, mostly at night.

The larvae feed on the inner bark of trees in declining health, and on the stumps of cut trees. With the marketing of Christmas trees and the increase in the number of stumps this weevil is becoming a serious pest.

The logical way to control this beetle, if no natural controls intercede, is to poison the stump of the cut trees. Sodium Arsenite and BHC have shown some promise for this purpose.

A little girl was seated on the front steps when a door-to-door salesman arrived. "Is your mother at home?" he asked.

"Yes, sir, she's always at home," the girl replied.

But when the salesman rang the doorbell there was no answer. Somewhat vexed, he asked, "Why doesn't your mother answer the bell?"

"I think she will when you get to our house," the girl replied. "We live four houses down the street."

Prayer Poem

Let Us Resolve

By Mary Pence Claywell

Lord, Walk with us, Talk with us, all the day long,
Wherever our paths may take us;
Keep us from evil, and be, Thou, Our Guide,
And Guard us, each moment, and lead us;
The morning is lovely, the rain clouds are gone,
The sky is as blue as the ocean,
And in all the Universe, nature is quiet,
Except, for the old world's commotion:
We know the world's "War-ring" and young men are falling,
Nor do we, seem able to stop it...
But each, here at home, has a duty to fill...
Please God... we will NEVER ignore it:
If sons die abroad, for the good of the Land,
We are told that is what they are doing...
Then we should preserve the Land, they have left,
And stick to the job, we're pursuing;
And working, and praying, keep everything right,
In this Land... for which young men are yearning...
And make it a cleaner, and better place,
For the ones... who will be returning.
Dear Lord, there is hate, and evil, and strife,
And riots, and strikes, and sin...
It makes us, Lord, wonder, if we're worthy of The sacrifice... made by them...
Do help us, we pray Thee, here day after day,
To make all internal strife cease,
And clean up the mess... in this Land that they love...
That... THEY MAY RETURN TO REAL PEACE!

National Orbital Rescue Service

By WALTER B. HENDRICKSON JR.

FOR SPACE EMERGENCIES
The Martin Company of Baltimore has proposed a National Orbital Rescue Service (NORS) which would use a variety of spacecraft. Since the Martin Company builds the Titan rockets they have naturally planned these to be the NORS boosters. However, on the larger spacecraft a Saturn IB could also serve the purpose.

Tandem Spacecraft
To rescue the crew of a three-man Apollo capsule Martin proposes a tandem Gemini. This craft would be boosted into orbit by either a Titan III-C or a Saturn IB. The tandem Gemini would be mounted like the riders on a tandem bicycle. Up front would be a three seat Gemini with no ejection seats, and behind it a three seat Gemini with no ejection seats.

The Rescue service would use rockets the next size larger than those used for regular missions. This would give them a greater chance of being able to make rendezvous. Even so it would take twelve hours for a rescue to be achieved with a Titan III or a Saturn and four hours with a Saturn V. This is because the spacecraft in orbit must be lined up just right for the rescue craft to reach it.

Scandinavian Audubon Tour

By Emma Mae Leonhard

If you think that taking a local bird census from sunrise to sunset in any kind of weather is physically exhausting, just try an Audubon Tour in foreign lands for six weeks.

Two members of our local Audubon Society can speak first hand of this experience, for your author and Mrs. Norma Davids-meyer have recently returned from a two-weeks Icelandic Bird Tour, followed by a four-weeks Scandinavian Bird Tour. Don't misunderstand us; we are not grumbling. We had lots of fun along with the daily exercise.

Our groups averaged about twenty, including a guide and a local authority on birds of that country. Among them were some eight avid birders, perhaps six average birders, and six mere nature lovers. The majority of them carried camera equipment in addition to their binoculars and a few gun-like scopes. When we moved along the trail, we were a motley line clad in all kinds and colors of field clothes. Some hiked; others trotted; and a few dragged. Everyone learned trail hazards while watching for birds.

before our visit, could spot the nest with little difficulty, and identified the bird species with uncanny speed. The big problem was to show all of us the specific bird, but the problem was usually solved.

Since we traveled several thousand miles—we didn't have time to compute them—we used all kinds of transportation: train, plane, steamer, ferry, bus and feet. Wherever we were, some of us were watching for birds, shouting "Bird! Bird!" Our main transportation was a chartered bus with a driver skilled enough to speed or drag over all kinds of serpentine by-ways. When we saw a bird as we rode along, we were supposed to shout "Bird!" loudly enough for our leader next to the driver to hear. The leader would become a spark, dart to the side of the bus from which came the agonized shout, and seeing an unusual bird would call to the martyred driver to stop. If at all possible we stopped. The leader vaulted out of the bus; the birders tumbled out as conveniently as the aisle traffic permitted; and the search began.

Occasionally the bird remained in view for all to identify. Sometimes we searched the near woods, the lava fields, or the meadows and bogs; and finally rounded the bird victim up. Many times the bird outwitted us, but we were always encouraged by the authority's promise: "We'll see plenty later." And we usually did. (The next article will describe a typical field trip by foot.)

Admiral Richard E. Byrd, foremost antarctic explorer of the second quarter of the 20th century, spent the polar winter of 1934 buried alone in a tiny hut many feet below the surface of the snow. Carbon monoxide fumes nearly cost him his life before his unrequested relief arrived after five months of this experiment, made to study the effect of polar environment on man.

ABANDONED CARS

KEY WEST, Fla. (AP)—The island city of Key West has solved the problem of what to do with abandoned automobiles. It clears off the streets. It chains the car bodies together and dumps them in the ocean to form artificial reefs which soon become prime fishing spots. Fish seem to be more attracted to the old cars than to natural reefs.

Raymond Bloomfield, 14-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Bloomfield of Ashland, captured the showmanship award in the swine show that concluded Friday morning. He won special praises from Melvin "Tiny" Beechner, the judge for this year's show.
Rev. Frank Nestler, pastor of Grace Methodist church and vice president of the Jacksonville Kiwanis club, presented the trophy.

Who's Worrying? Me?

A mighty fine, trim yearling Chester White sow was named Friday the best of those entered in the Junior Fair. She was a quiet individual, one that qualifies for the old adage, "doesn't care about Sunday, or any other day."
She was brought to the fair by Ricky Bryant, 12, son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Bryant of Franklin and a member of the Franklin Straight Shooters 4-H club. Presenting the trophy is Miss Linda Spangler, Pork Queen.

NEW BORN CALF — This calf was born Wednesday about 11 a.m. at the Morgan County Fair. The cow is a seven-year-old milking shorthorn owned by Tom Johnson of Ashland. The calf was about five hours old when this picture was taken.

Grand Champion Gilt

A Yorkshire gilt, with the best measurements in the world and a disinclination to keep her nose clean, was chosen the No. 1 gilt at the Junior Fair Friday morning.

She was long and white, with classic beauty, but she just wouldn't keep her snout out of the tankard in the show ring. As soon as her proprietor, Tom Burrus, cleaned off her nose, she'd plunge it into the tankard again.

But the judge felt that a penchant for rooting didn't necessarily disqualify any hog, so the photo shows Miss Linda Spangler, Morgan County Pork Queen, as she presented the trophy to Burrus.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Martin Burrus of Arenzville and belongs to the Victory Ag club.

During her spare moments at the hog show Thursday and Friday Miss Spangler was boning up on her talk on the value of the pork industry which she will give at the Illinois State Fair Aug. 13 in the contest for Illinois Pork Queen, which was won last year by Miss Kathy Wright of Murrayville.

There's stronger competition this year, with contestants from 18 counties.

"I'm going to do my best," Linda says, with a firm set to her jaw. "At least they'll know I'm there."

Sometimes bridge players argue about success. South studied dummy for about ten minutes before playing the first card from dummy. Then he won the trick in his own hand and played out dummy's ace and king of clubs. When both opponents followed to the second club South conceded a club trick and claimed his contract.

North remarked, "Your play worked, but as a matter of strict mathematics you should have won the spade in dummy and taken a double diamond finesse. Unless West held both king and queen of diamonds that play would have worked. There is a 76 per cent chance of finding one of two honors in the East hand. There is only a 68 per cent chance of breaking the clubs 3-2."

South replied, "The actual chance of success with the club play was 71 per cent. I don't play in a vacuum and would have abandoned clubs had they broken 5-0 but you overlook the fact that my club play gave me a considerable extra chance. Suppose East showed out on the second club. I would go after diamonds and have a 24 per cent chance of making my contract. East could hold both diamond honors. Or West might show out on the second club. Then I would still have a 52 per cent chance of success because I would make the hand if honors divided."

North and South have appealed to us for an opinion and our answer is that as a matter of strict mathematics South's line of play is superior. His combination play works out to better than 80 per cent.

Nevertheless we would almost surely have attacked diamonds because we would reason that West would surely have opened a diamond if he held both the king and queen.

Why Not Go Home, Now?

A splendid 160 pound Hampshire barrow came to the Junior Fair, won the grand championship trophy and then got bored with everything and wanted to go home.

Hence this picture was taken on the fly, literally. The trophy winner was shown by Bob DeOrnellas, 15 years old now but an old hand at winning the top premiums in the hog show. Next is Miss Linda Spangler of the Lynnville neighborhood and the 1966 Morgan County Pork Queen, and Rollin "Pepper" Martin, superintendent of the swine department.

The proud owner of this year's grand champion is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard DeOrnellas, rural route 3, Jacksonville, and a member of the North Side Seniors 4-H club.

BIG WINNERS in the domestic arts competition are shown above. From left, Mary Hamm, Chapin, highest number of entries in foods, highest points in canned fruits; Melba Joeckel, Chapin, best show of quick breads, second highest number and second points overall in the show; Carol Maurer, Rural Route Jacksonville, only person to have entries in every division, most points and most entries in the entire show; and Susan McNeely, Franklin, most entries and points in the clothing division. The girls are looking at a pair of wool slacks which won a first place ribbon for Miss McNeely.

BRIMFUL and running over

By Jim Brim

Rambling... I sometimes believe that traveling with an inquiring mind (a curious nature) and a desire to talk to people is about the most educational activity that can be undertaken — for both adults and children. It is good for us to see how others live, and how they make their living.

In recent travels I find that there is a sizable area that needs rain. Iowa's tall corn is not so tall. Terraced, contoured and strip-cropped fields do a good job of erosion control and are beautiful on the rolling hills of northern Iowa and Minnesota. These two states still produce a lot of oats. Wheat in northern Minnesota is just being cut. Manitoba wheat won't be ready for two weeks more.

Canadian crop prospects are good. Saw quite a bit of alfalfa dehydrating. Cooperative marketing of grain is very important in Minnesota and Canada, in Canada particularly. Sugar beets, sunflowers and flax are common crops, replacing our corn and soybeans. Rape seed may have merit as a replacement for flax seed.

The Red River valley is a beautiful productive plain, but I always appreciate western Illinois more when I see other sections of the country.

Now you should...
...fix fence.
...take Mon out to Sunday dinner.
...get the kids clothes for school.
...measure and weigh the kids.
...visit relatives.
...enjoy garden produce.

It's amazing how things change. I am writing this from Nyes Provincial Park west of Marathon, Ontario, on the north shore of Lake Superior. A nice spot with a sandy beach. It was a prisoner of war camp from 1941 to 1948, but is now under development as another type of camp — a camp for travelers and recreation.

I believe we should all keep in mind the last piece of advice given to campers in Ontario. PARENTS — Your children's safety is your responsibility. Do not rely on others to protect them.

1866 Fair A Great Success

Out at the junior fair last week several people asked, "How in the world did the fair a hundred years ago pay big dividends? They didn't have any state aid? How was it done?"

Yes, stockholders then in the fair association received dividends ranging from 10 to 22 percent every year.

Management was the reason. The president of the association was Jonathan Neely, who always had at least a dozen iron in the fire at the same time. In 1866 he was developing the coal mine at Neely's station on the Wabash railroad, and selling coal to all the engines between Decatur and Hannibal. He was also selling town lots in what many people believed would be the biggest town in Scott county.

The Wabash railroad printed a timetable that put the name of the place "Neelyville." That extra "e" didn't fret Jonathan any, but people today still argue about it.

The fair superintendent was Cornelius Goltra, who at that time had a 40 acre farm in the southeastern quarter of town.

In the census of 1866 he was listed as a "gentleman" with real estate holdings of $40,000. He was a fancy dresser and, it is said, never paid for his duds, because the tailor declined to ask for his pay, knowing that other men would swarm in to have clothing cut in the same same fashion as Cornelius.

He was superintendent of the state fair for nine years. Wherever the fair was, there was Cornelius, dressed up and smoking a long cheroot, smiling at the ladies and insulting most everybody else.

A True Promoter
But he got money pouring into the till, which made everybody happy. Beginning with the state fair in Jacksonville in 1860 he was in charge of two fairs in Chicago, plus those in Decatur, Peoria, Aurora, Freeport, and some other town that I can't think of just now.

Competition for the state fair was fierce and wasteful. Town boosters went to any length to get it — furnishing land, buildings and labor — a most costly enterprise to bring notice to their town, to themselves. Finally it developed into such a headache for everybody that the fair was settled in the state capital.

In late years the Illinois State Fair, biggest of them all, has developed into a joke. Little Willie Stratton dried it up in the early years of his tenure, and from then on many, many persons decided to stay home and watch TV. Frankly Rust, the present superintendent, is a fervent disciple of the Great Society and is offering $1 an hour for help.

And he'll announce the usual deficit in his next report.

How They Did It
How did Neely and Goltra make money?

It was done by guile, blarney, sawhorses, planks and that best of all gimmick, GIRLS. Las Vegas and Miami Beach, the Riviera all work on the same principle today and they are doing very well, thank you.

About two or three weeks before the fair Jonathan and Cornelius would announce that the there would be no gift, no graft at this year's fair. It would be different this year, totally clean, no gambling, no liquor, the strictest order would prevail.

And that was the way it was the first day.
Then as the crowds came in individuals who had paid up moved in sawhorses and a couple of 1x12 planks, set up and went into business.

No liquor on the grounds? Forget it. No gambling on the grounds? Forget that too.

A guy could set himself up in the saloon business in four minutes, and if the heat became rather unhealthy could disband just as fast. Two sawhorses, two planks, a couple jugs of whisky, a dozen tin cups, and a couple of attractive damsels to shill in the country boys, and he was truly in business.

In 1866 whisky was very expensive, due to the $2 tax levied in 1863 and not to be repealed until 1868, when the internal revenue collections got so high that the folks in Congress didn't know what to do with the money.

Yes, good drinking whisky cost $2.70 a gallon, but profits were good at 15c to 25c a shot, especially if it was well watered. When I was a kid old-timers often talked about "fair whisky."

They said it was pretty weak stuff.
At the same time everything in the gambling line would be put up, here and there, scattered over the grounds. There would be craps, chuck-a-luck, thimble-rig faro, bucco — you name the game, it would be on the grounds.

Girls And Girls
In those days there was an ample supply of girls — who needed only a bath and a new dress to look mighty attractive to a country boy who had been working in the fields during the summer. When one of them suggested "let's try our luck" on some deal the answer was nearly always yes, and some more money flowed into the fair till.

Forty years ago I interviewed, for a newspaper story, a very sweet old lady in this town. She said, "The only decent dresses I ever had until I got married Jonathan Neely bought them. I certainly loved the fair, and the nice boys — especially those from Buckhorn — but did I get tired of drinking tea while the boys were in whisky? I still don't drink tea — can't stand the stuff!"

Then, everybody liked to bet on the horse races. But the bookmaker had to make arrangements with Jonathan and Cornelius before he dared begin business.

The so-called horse races at our county fairs are a joke today. But if bookmakers, parimutuel rigs, were allowed today you couldn't get a seat in the grandstand any afternoon. What can possibly be so dull as a horse race unless you have a little bet going with it?

Thursday, Oct. 18, 1866 was a big day, with 12,000 paid admission.

A Rigged Race?
There were 10,000 people in the grandstand when the big race started. Sucker State, a fine little mare from Jersey county, was a big favorite. Everybody liked her.

She won the first race easily. Then something happened to her half way around the track — nobody seemed to know just what — and Monitor, a big gray from Sangamon county won the heat. And with no competition from Sucker State he won the final heat easily.

Much to the chagrin of the on-lookers and much to the delight of the bookmakers and the management.

The day before the people's favorite trotting team in harness lost too. It was said that the of mare threw a shoe.

Thursday was a big day for the swine show, with 59 head of Berkshire, Essex, Suffolk hogs entered, "plus some common stock."

In the mule show Jonathan Neely's span, Paul and Dick, took top honors. In the carriage team show, U.S. Senator Dick Yates' team, "Grant and Sherman," copped the top premium. Friday, the final day, was washed out, but some of the contests went on. The women worked hard and fast to get their entries out of the horticultural and fine arts building because it had a leaky roof.

A Financial Success
But at the close of the fair Neely and Goltra announced that all premium winners could pick up their money at Farrell's State Bank, at any time, and they hinted that the dividend to stockholders would be 12 percent.

And it was.
I don't suppose that anybody is going to come around and ask how to put our county fair on a dividend paying basis. The story above tells how, but the pattern is illegal now.

Darn it.

Point Lookout, at the mouth of the Potomac river, has been sold to General Bayard, of New York, for $67,500. Stock-raising is becoming an important feature in Texas. Some sections are said to be overrun with cattle, nearly wild, belonging to any man who has the facilities for catching and branding them. This laxity of ownership, however, is fast being superseded by the arrival of large number of emigrants, who are settling in those sections.

The favor with which the prepared South American beef has been received in Europe has suggested the practicability of similar enterprises in Texas. The work of rebuilding the structure of the Smithsonian Institute in Washington, which was destroyed by fire, is slowly progressing.

A physician ordered one of his patients to drink Seidlitz waters. The man made up a wry face at the suggestion. "It is only the first glass that is unpleasant," said the doctor.

"Very well, then," said the sick man, "I'll only drink the second."

IMPORTANT TO SOLDIERS
—Since the passage of the law of Congress equalizing the bounty to soldiers, which will sooner or later be carried into effect, it becomes important that the soldiers should make sure of preserving their discharges by having them recorded. There is a church in Vermont in which the people cannot agree whether to face the pulpit or the choir during singing. The big forward wall of the Packers out-rushed the All-Stars and set up fumbles at critical junctures. Quarterback Steve Sloan of Alabama was forced into a fumble on a handoff at the start of the game, and the Packers recovered on the Stars' 33.

Taylor and Hornung together carried 23 yards and Starr passed to Boyd Dowler for the first touchdown of the game after only 3 minutes 17 seconds of play.

By halftime the Packers had run the count to 28-0 and held the collegians to two first downs.

Atlanta Snaps Phils' String At 7 Games, 9-2

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Joe Torre and Denis Menke drove in five ninth-inning runs with homers Friday night as the Atlanta Braves whipped Philadelphia 9-2 and snapped the Phillies' winning streak at seven games.

Woody Woodward's sacrifice fly following three straight walks by Joe Verbanic broke a 2-2 tie for the Braves in the eighth, and they put the game out of reach the following inning.

After Mack Jones doubled home the first run, Ray Herbert walked Hank Aaron intentionally. Torre then drove his 27th homer over the right field wall for three more runs.

Rico Carty followed with a single, and Menke connected for his eighth homer.

ANAHEIM, Calif. (AP) — Tommie Agee and John Romano hit homers in support of Gary Peters' five-hit pitching Friday night as the Chicago White Sox defeated the California Angels 3-1.

Agee's homer, his 11th, tied the game and started a two-run rally in the fourth inning. Singles by Pete Ward and Romano, combined with Ken Berry's sacrifice fly, produced the go-ahead run. Romano made it 3-1 in the eighth with his ninth homer.

Clay 1-10 Favorite To Beat London

LONDON (AP) — Heavyweight champion Cassius Clay launches his fight a month campaign here Saturday night, a prohibitive 1-10 favorite over the punch-weary British veteran, Brian London.

The bout in Earl's Court Stadium, where evangelist Billy Graham recently held his crusade against sin, will be televised live in the United States via the Early Bird Satellite. The time is 5 p.m. EDT on ABC-TV.

The fight is expected to draw a crowd of 18,500 and, with ancillary rights, bring in enough money to pay Clay $250,000 plus a cut of the TV money, and London $112,000.

However, it's considered such a mismatch that bookies have written it off as virtually a one-man show. If you like London, you have to put $10 to collect $1 and, with money tight in Britain, the bookmakers aren't doing a landslide business.

This will be the 25th fight for the unbeaten champion and his third title defense this year. "I'd like to do a fight a month," the loquacious champion said. "I'm getting old, you know."

Wilson 5-Hits Bosox, Wins 2-0

DETROIT (AP) — A single by Don Wert and a sacrifice fly by Dick Tracewski scored two runs in the fifth inning and carried the Detroit Tigers to a 2-0 victory over the Boston Red Sox Friday night.

Earl Wilson threw a five-hitter for his first victory over his former teammates.

Wert's hit on Tracewski's fly ball came after Bill Freehan had doubled and Boston starter Dennis Bennett had walked two men.

NFL Rushing Title Now Up For Grabs

MANKATO, Minn. (AP) — Tommy Mason has his eye on Jim Brown's title and the 1,000-yard club as well. The hard-running Minnesota halfback thinks it will be a wide open race for the rushing championship in the NFL.

"It could be a free-for-all with Jim out of there," said Mason at the Vikings' camp on the campus of Mankato State College. "Of course, if Gale Sayers can do it again like he did last year, he could take it all. If I can play 14 games, I think I have a chance along with Bill Brown of our club, Jim Taylor of Green Bay and Timmy Brown of the Eagles."

"Boy, that Sayers was really something last year. It wasn't luck, just pure ability. You know, we have some fine running backs in this league."

Mason might already be a member of that exclusive 1,000-yard club if he could stay healthy. Something always seems to happen to the injury-prone back. If it isn't a knee, it's an elbow, a fractured foot or the knee again. So far the knee he damaged last year is holding up fine.

"I came in at 190 pounds, about eight pounds less than usual," he said, "so I wouldn't put too much pressure on the knee. Maybe the law of averages will be running for me this time."

Cater, Blanco Carry Athletics Past Twins, 4-2

KANSAS City (AP) — Danny Cater drove in two runs and Gil Blanco won his first game for Kansas City as the Athletics beat Minnesota 4-2 Friday night.

After Minnesota gained an 1-0 edge in the fourth on a walk, hit batsman and Cesar Tovar's single, the Athletics jumped on loser Jim Merritt for three hits and two runs.

With one away Cater and Ed Charles singled. Dick Green drove home Cater with a single, and Joe Nosske sent Charles in with a sacrifice fly.

In the fifth, Ossie Chavarria doubled and rode home on Cater's single, and in the seventh Cater singled home Mike Hersberger, who had doubled and gone to third on right fielder Tony Oliva's error.

Redlegs Fall 5-1 In Regional, Play Monday

SPRINGFIELD — The Jacksonville Redlegs never recovered from a bad first inning and dropped a 5-1 game to Canfield Construction of Springfield, in the Springfield Regional here Friday night.

The Redlegs will now play Springfield Quality Furniture at 8:00 Monday evening, for third place and a trip to the state tournament the following week. The tournament is being held at Lincoln Park.

Redleg starter Bob Vinyard gave up four runs in the first frame, but settled down after that to strike out 13 batters in the final five innings.

Promising Rookie
Matt Snell and Bill Mathis will handle the running back chores unless rookie Emerson Booser of Maryland State makes enough progress to push his way in. A breakaway runner, Booser could turn out to be the perfect complement for Snell.

With the exception of center, the offensive line is manned by veterans, Winston Hill and Sherm Plunkett at tackles and Dave Herman and Sam DeLuca at guard.

Flanking McAdams or Atkinson at the outside linebacking spots will be veterans Ralph Baker and Larry Grantham with the front four held down by Verlon Biggs and Gerry Philbin at end and Paul Rochester and Jim Harris at tackle.

The defensive backfield holdovers are Clyde Washington and Bill Baird at the corners and Ray Abruzzese and Darnard Paulson at safety. Also figuring are Cornell Gordon, a rookie last year, and Sherman Lewis, former Michigan State star returning from two years in Canada.

Lewis not only could grab a live while weighing only 150 pounds, some punch to the kick return teams if he can manage to sur-

16th In Last 19 Surging Reds Nip Pittsburgh By 4-3

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Gordy Coleman's homer in the sixth inning snapped a tie as the surging Cincinnati Reds edged the National League-leading Pittsburgh Pirates 4-3 Friday night.

The victory was the Reds' sixth in a row and their 16th in the last 19 games. Coleman's blast, his third of the year, came off reliever Pete Mikkelsen. Pittsburgh starter Steve Blass left the game in the second inning after being hit on the pitching hand by a ball off

Koufax, Dodgers Breeze To 12-1 Win

HOUSTON (AP) — Sandy Koufax breezed to his 18th victory Friday night as the Los Angeles Dodgers exploded for 18 hits and battered the hapless Houston Astros 12-1 before 46,555 fans.

Koufax became the first major league pitcher to reach the 18-victory plateau. The only run off Koufax, who has lost five, was Dave Nicholson's homer in the second inning.

Namath And Jets Aiming For Title

PEEKSKILL, N.Y. (AP) — There are three little words on Joe Namath's lips.

No, the New York Jets' $400,000 quarterback and highly eligible bachelor isn't altar-bound. His goal is simply:

"Win the championship."

Namath fires the three words back when asked about the Jets' chances in the American Football League this season, and there's little doubt that an air of confidence rings the training camp — right up to Coach Weeb Ewbank.

"We think we can go all the way," said Ewbank, although qualifying it with "if we get the breaks."

Ewbank makes it sound realistic, but all the Jets have to do is completely turn around their 5-8-1 record of last year and upend the defending league champion Buffalo Bills before they can even hang up the Eastern Division pennant.

The flip-flop largely hinges on Namath's progress in his second season and three trouble spots — center, middle linebacker and tight end. All, however, could be solved. How well they are solved probably will determine where the Jets finish.

Trouble Spots
Here's how the trouble spots look at a glance:

Center — Veteran Mike Hudock was lost to Miami in the expansion draft, leaving John Schmitt, a 22-year-old in his third season, as the lone hold-over. But rookie John Matlock of Miami, Fla. could wind up with the job.

Middle linebacker — The guy to beat is Al Atkinson, who played behind Wahoo McDaniels most of last season, now that Carl McAdams, the $325,000 rookie from Oklahoma, is out for most of the season with a broken ankle. McAdams suffered the injury while walking down a Chicago street on a sightseeing tour.

Tight end — Gene Heeter, the holdover veteran, has retired following a second knee operation during the offseason. The big guy here could be Bill Yearby of Michigan, the Jets' No. 1 draft choice who is being converted from tackle. Another star rookie is Pete Lammons from Texas.

Namath's No. 1 target, however, will remain flanker Don Maynard, who tied for the league lead with 14 touchdowns passes last season. The split end post is up for grabs between George Sauer, a rookie last year who has impressed, and Jim Colclough, acquired from Boston in the trade for John Huarte.

The entire sports bill, which would give all pro sports the same exemptions under anti-trust laws that baseball now has, still is making its way through Congress and might not be acted on in time this summer.

"We have made specific proposals to the House Judiciary Committee," Rozelle revealed at a meeting of the Football Writers Association before the annual College All-Star game.

"We would like something covering our single league plan so we could bring reasonable implementation of our announced plan."

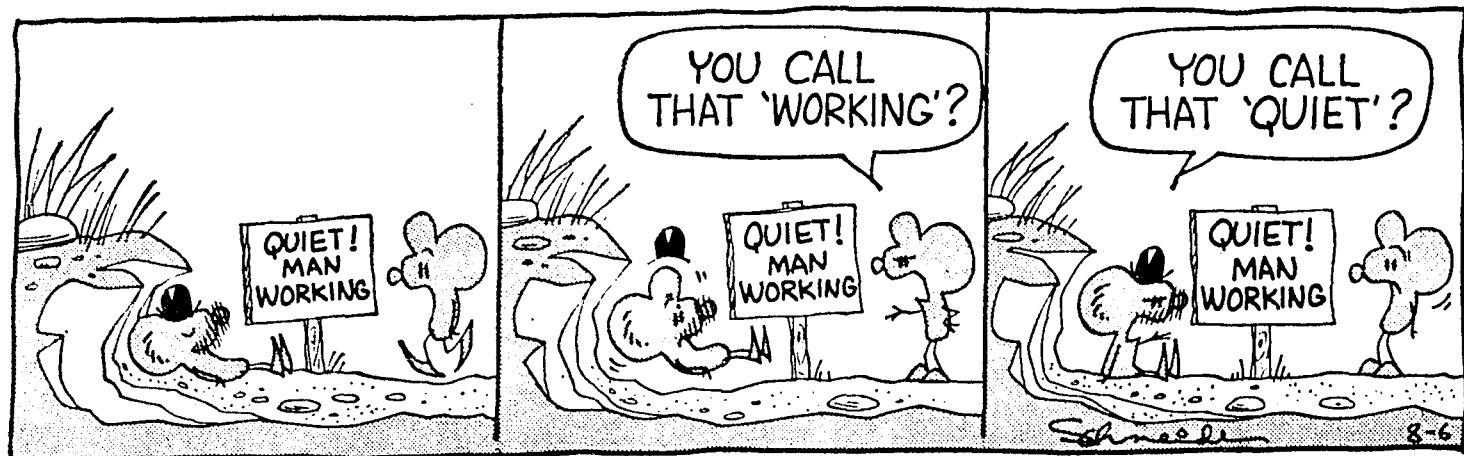

Rozelle then was asked what would happen if legislation is not forthcoming. He said the league then would consult with its legal counsel in Washington.

SETS SWIM RECORD — PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Lee Davis of the Swam Boat Club, Philadelphia, won the 1,500-meter freestyle in 18:21.7 Friday for a women's world record.
